CITY WITHOUT MISHAPS

oller Coaster Accident In Cleveland Kills One; Two Others Injured.

Busy with the war and erating under gasoline re-rictions, the nation kept its ly 4 holiday week-end death ll to 190, the lowest figure years, while one death was arked up in the Mansfield area. Struck by a car while riding bicycle Saturday night in ooming Grove, Morrow county lage, John Morrison, 14, suffer- a skull fracture and died at . m. Sunday in Galion City hos-al. No traffic injuries were orted in Mansfield or Richland unty.

With the long holiday more than lf gone, Ohio's accident toll od at 10 today. The figure, below the normal holiday ek-end total, included three rsons killed in traffic mishaps, ree drownings, and four deaths other types of accidents.

One boy was killed and eight rsons were injured in two rill ride" accidents at Cleve-nd's Euclid Beach park. An ht-foot fall from a car on the ler coaster claimed the life of eph Senk, 16

The others were injured when car on the "Aero Dip" ide rned over on its side and lodged ainst a fence. Police were in-stigating the accidents today.

The almost complete absence of eworks in July 4 celebrations d the ban on them in Ohio and umber of other states helped keep the accident toll down.

The 190 reported dead in the ation after the first day of the ouble holiday contrasted sharp- with the 320 persons killed er the Fourth of July last ar and 500 in 1941.

California and Illinois reported greatest number of deaths in iday accidents. Each state had while Kansas had 12 and Mis-ri, 11.

The Morrison youth, who had ently moved to Blooming ove, was fatally injured at the ersection of State Route 97 and nporarly Route 545 in the vil-

Raid Alert In Daylight Set for City

Surprise Order to Come Between Tuesday and Saturday Night.

Mansfield and Richland county civilian defense units will get their first daylight mobilization test in a surprise air raid alert scheduled for this week.

State OCD headquarters is keeping the time secret, announcing only that the test will be during the daylight hours sometime between Tuesday morning and next Saturday night.

The test will cover the First, Second and Fourth civilian defense districts in northern Ohio, involving Richland and 22 other counties.

Mansfield OCD Commander Jesse Schwab said the alert will give local and state civilian defense heads a picture of the efficiency of the home defense units which would have to go into action unexpectedly should the city and county be bombed in a daylight raid.

The test will not affect persons in their homes and business places, but both motor and pedestrian traffic will be stopped as they are in blackouts, Schwab said.

At the first steady blast of the air raid sirens, cars and buses will be requested to travel at reduced speed and pedestrians must walk with caution.

At the second audible signal—the wailing of the sirens—pedestrians must seek shelter and traffic will be stopped except for the movement of emergency vehicles such as police cars and ambulances.

When the third signal sounds-

GALION BLAZE LOSS $100,000

FBI Starts Inquiry In Fire at Body Company Engaged In War Production.

GALION—Loss in yesterday's early morning blaze at the Perfective Steel Body company was estimated at $100,000 by Fire Chief Harry Kile today as the Federal Bureau of Investigation and local officials launched an investigation into cause of the blaze.

Chief Kile said the fire started in a wing of the paint shop of the plant which is engaged in assembling army trucks. The blaze destroyed one section of the plant and work of firemen was credited with preventing it from reaching the main factory building.

Harry Cobey, company president, said full production would

Train Explosion At Ashland Takes Its Third Victim

ASHLAND—Explosion of an Erie railroad express car here on June 23 today had claimed the life of a third victim.

Henry Duffner, 53, of Ashland, died in a hospital here yesterday of burns suffered while loading baggage in a car adjoining that which exploded.

Two others were killed in the blast, James Vellie, 32, of Salamanoa, N. Y., and Eugene McMurray, 42, of Ashland.

The explosion blew the top out of the steel express car, damaged the railroad station and its force broke more than 50f windows in scores of homes in the vicinity of the depot.

Duffner was a native of Richland county. He was born at Ontario and had been employed by

Guns Gone, He Uses Propellor To Drive Away Six Jap Planes

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Regaining consciousness in mid-air after a swarm of Japanese Zeros had wounded him in the head and blasted his guns out of action, Lieut. Jack Bade converted his weaponless plane into a flying buzz-saw and went after six enemy planes with his propellor blades.

In recounting today the do-or-die daring of the 20-year-old pilot from Elk River, Minn., the war department said Bade not only broke the nerve of the Japanese pilots by hurling his battered P-40 into the hail of their bullets, but in doing so saved three large navy dive bombers from their attack.

Then, on landing, he expressed concern that the navy men in the dive bombers might not understand why he didn't shoot down the Zeros.

"They must think I'm a lousy shot," Lieut. Bade exclaimed.

Bade's first tangle came at 23,000 feet over Bougainville island in the southwest Pacific one day last month. Outnumbered, he was shot in the back of the head and knocked out.

The ocean was only 400 feet below when he revived, pulled out of his dive and saw four float-type Zero planes on the water a mile ahead. He headed for them, but discovered his gun had been crippled by enemy fire. He was near the Japanese field at Ballale. A bad place to be, alone, and without a gun. So he headed homeward, bleeding.

But at 5,000 feet up he saw a Zero chasing a slower navy dive bomber and went to the rescue with nothing but his whirling propellors for a weapon.

He bore down, head-on toward the enemy guns spraying death.

SIKORSKI DEAD

Polish Chief, Several Aids Die In Plane Crash.

LONDON—(AP)—General Wladislaw Sikorski, premier of the Polish government-in-exile and commander of its armed forces, was killed last night when the Liberator plane in which he was travelling crashed shortly after taking off from Gibraltar, the air ministry announced today.

Major General Klimecki and several other members of Sikorski's staff died with him, the announcement said.

The only survivor of the crash was the pilot of the big plane, who was seriously injured.

Sikorski, who had been visiting Polish armed forces in the Middle East, had served as prime minister of the Polish government and commander in chief of the Polish army since 1939.

WE'LL SAIL IN

Knox Says U. S. Fleet Will Enter Tokyo Harbor.

SEATTLE—(AP)—The United States fleet ultimately will sail into Tokyo harbor, declares Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox—"and then tyrants of the Tojo type will learn their aggression has been done away with on this globe."

Speaking at the launching of the destroyer Morrison last night at the Seattle-Tacoma shipbuilding corporation yard, the navy secretary said any part of a Japanese air force with the temerity to attack the west coast would stand only the barest chance of returning home, he added.

Postoffice Lists Rules For Mail To Prisoners Of War

Complete instructions for sending mail to prisoners of war or detained and interned civilians have been received at the Mansfield postoffice.

Letters mailed by or to these persons are exempt from postal charges and are acceptable for mailing even though regular mail service to the country of destination may be suspended, the postoffice bulletin declares.

This free mail can not be registered or sent air mail but if air mail service is desired, appropriate postage must be prepaid. Prisoner of war mail is subject to censorship and should be typewritten if possible, the bulletin says.

Mail is not to be sent to a prisoner of war or an interned civilian until the individual's name is officially released, according to postal regulations. The address is to be typewritten or handprinted.

In addressing an envelope for this type of mail the words "prisoner of war" are to be placed in the upper left corner and the

4TH QUIETEST IN MANY YEARS

Rain Dampens Observances In City Area; Regatta Staged, Parades Due Today.

A rainy holiday period and travel restrictions combined today to make Mansfield's observance of Independence day one of the quietest in years.

Except for two neighborhood observances, today's holiday calendar was made up principally of rest for those not engaged in employment in war-busy plants. Inclement weather put a damper on family picnics.

Independence day parades were scheduled to get under way at 11 a. m. today in the Western and Bowman school neighborhoods. Children of those districts were to participate with their pets, floats, bicycles and other appropriate parade displays.

In spite of rain yesterday, a crowd of several hundred persons gathered at Pleasant Hill lake

Suspect Held In 3 Wyoming Ranch Country Murders

LARAMIE, Wyo.—(AP)—Armed searching parties slackened today an organized manhunt prompted by the slaying of a war worker and a middle-aged ranch couple, while murder charges were being prepared in one of the cold-blooded gunshot killings.

County Attorney Lenoir Bell announced last night that Howard William Pickell, 26, held in the Cheyenne county jail, would be charged tomorrow with the murder of Matt Katmo, 44, at a mountain campground last Wednesday.

Sheriff Ed A. Wood said Mrs. O. W. Larson identified Pickell as the man who killed Katmo, her companion on an automobile drive, then beat and bound her.

Two days later, the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Cota were found near a garage on their ranch south of Laramie. Each had been shot several times.

In both cases, the victims' automobiles were driven from the scene, then abandoned.

Sheriff Norbert Tuck of Cheyenne said Pickell admitted he was the assailant in the Katmo case, and that he was questioned in the later slayings. Tuck said no definite motive for the shooting was known.

CONGRESS, FDR AT ODDS WITH RECESS NEAR

Executive Rebuffed on Taxes, No-Strike Bill, Pet Agencies During Present Session.

SOLONS TO GO HOME

Expected To Leave Capital This Week; Action Due on Appropriations.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Congress will go home this week, barring last-minute changes in plans, at greater odds with President Roosevelt on domestic issues than at any time since the New Deal came into power 10 years ago.

Predictions vary as to the mood in which the lawmakers will return seven weeks hence, but all sides are agreed that as the hour for a summer recess draws near the legislators and the president are more hostile toward each other than ever before.

The diversity of viewpoint was illustrated sharply by passage over the president's veto of the anti-strike bill and the president's crackling rejection, later sustained, of congress's effort to kill the administration's roll back subsidies on food items. And those are only two of a long list of controversies in the last six months.

Congress has dealt what amounts to death blows to two favorite New Deal agencies, the National Youth Administration and the National Resources planning board. The Farm Security administration barely was saved from a house firing squad.

In the tax field, Mr. Roosevelt was rebuffed by congressional cancellation of his order limiting salaries to $25,000 after federal levies. His request for an additional $16,000,000,000 in revenue largely has been ignored thus far and a modified version of the Ruml "pay as you go" plan, which he apparently signed reluctantly, has been enacted.

Two of the president's major appointments—those of Edward J. Flynn as minister to Australia and of James V. Allred, former Texas governor, to the circuit court of appeals—failed to materialize. Flynn's appointment was withdrawn in the face of senate opposition, and Allred's nomination was pigeon-holed by the senate judiciary committee.

Varied reasons are advanced for these clashes between the executive and legislative branches, but Senator Van Nuys (D., Ind.) attributed most of them to a

RETURNS HOME

Madame Chiang Kai-Shek Joins Generalissimo in China.

CHUNGKING—(AP)—Mrs. Chiang Kai-Shek returned by plane to this war capital yesterday for a joyful reunion with her husband the Chinese generalissimo, after an extended tour of the United States and Canada.

Weary and airsick, she landed at the airdrome here in a transport plane piloted by an American crew, ending her 15,000-mile journey which began last Nov. 18.

The time of her arrival was kept so secret not even the generalissimo was informed. Only upon her arrival at their home here were they reunited.

The trip back to Chungking took less than a week and passed uneventfully, but the First Lady of China found the strain of travel trying. She arrived as President Lin Sen lay gravely ill and China was only three days away from the beginning of the seventh year of the war with Japan.

Plane Hits Tree During Maneuvers At Athens.

ATHENS—(AP)—When the plane he was flying in maneuvers of the Ohio State Guard crashed into a tree, Gordon Bush, 40, publisher of the Athens Messenger, suffered a broken nose and Peter Good, 40, of Athens was bruised, the state highway patrol reported.

The men were dropping practice bombs in conjunction with the maneuvers at Camp Zaleski near here when the civil air patrol monoplane dived into a tree.

Yanks Capture Village, Blast 21 Jap Planes

General At Front To Direct Attack That Brings Fall Of Vura; Munda Rocked By Dive-Bombers; Nine Heavy Raids Smack Kiska.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—American forces, with General Douglas MacArthur in direct charge of operations, thrust forward in the central Solomons Sunday, capturing a strategic village on Vangunu island and destroying 21 Japanese planes over Rendova.

News that General MacArthur had taken the field for the second time in eight months was followed closely by the announcement that Americans had seized Vura village on the southern tip of Vangunu island. Three hundred Japanese were killed in the operation and the remainder of the garrison was dispersed. The noon communique said our losses were "relatively light."

Vura village commands the approaches to Wickham anchorage on the southern coast of Vangunu island.

American planes and anti-aircraft guns shot 21 planes out of two formations which attempted to raid American positions on Rendova. Eighteen Japanese bombers, escorted by a score of fighters, were pounced upon by a flight of Lockheed Lightnings before they reached their objective. Five bombers and four Zeros were shot down without loss of a single American plane.

Soon afterward 16 Japanese bombers, escorted by fighters, appeared over Rendova but anti-aircraft guns knocked down 12 of the bombers in a 30-minute battle. The others were driven off.

General MacArthur sent torpedo and dive-bombers against Munda, the core of Japanese resistance on New Georgia. The enemy camp sectors and harbor outposts were pounded with 1,000 and 2,000-pound bombs. All the attacking planes returned.

Meanwhile, from Washington the navy announced nine heavy bombing raids on Japanese positions on Kiska island in the north Pacific. Hits were observed on anti-aircraft positions, camp areas and on buildings. Weather conditions prevented observation of results of some of the raids.

General MacArthur, in supreme command of all land, sea and air forces in the new Allied operations in the southwest Pacific, flew to New Guinea last month in an army bomber escorted by fighters. Shortly after his arrival he visited the New Guinea coast at a point where great masses of arms and supplies were stored. He complimented the men who had made the supply prerarations.

The general was in field command of New Guinea operations last October, setting up headquarters at Port Moresby and directing the campaign which resulted in the capture of Buna and routed the Japanese from the Papuan peninsula.

Already, after only five days of the new offensive against the Japanese, Allied forces have gained a firm foothold on Rendova island within artillery range of the Munda airdrome; captured the enemy barge base at Viru on the southwest coast of New Georgia; dislodged the enemy on Vangunu island, the southernmost of the New Georgia group lying athwart

REPORT: Admiral Tells How Invasion Surprised Japanese Foe

(By Associated Press)

HEADQUARTERS OF THE SOUTH PACIFIC AMPHIBIOUS FORCE, July 1—(Delayed)—The rear admiral commanding the American amphibious invasion of the New Georgia islands declared tonight that the initial troop landings yesterday morning caught the Japanese in flat-footed surprise.

He said also that although reports from the army land forces through the invasion's second day were meager, "things look favorable so far.

The army force made the major invasion landing on Rendova island across the narrow channel from the Munda airfield. Other landings were made at Viru harbor, New Georgia, where early resistance was wiped out in the afternoon.

Most of the army troops were from Maine, Vermont and Connecticut.

Showing a broad smile of confidence and satisfaction despite the sinking of the transport McCawley, the admiral reported the salient phase of the operation—the landing of troops with their weapons, supplies and equipment—was finished without a single effective blow of resistance.

The admiral, who directed the initial amphibious invasion of Guadalcanal last Aug. 7 and the occupation of the Russell islands last February, tersely expressed his satisfaction over the New Georgia expedition in this fashion:

"I don't like to see soldiers swim."

The disembarking of troops started at 6:55 a. m. from large transports crowded in the narrow neck of Blanche channel for the major landing thrust at Rendova

CELEBRATE: Yanks Observe 4th In Blazing French Raids

BULLETIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTEDS IN NORTH AFRICA—(AP)—Allied bombers smashed back heavily at Axis airdromes in Sicily yesterday and destroyed at least 43 enemy fighter planes which offered determined resistance "in fierce air battles," an Allied communique said today.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A Fourth of July three-ply bombing carried American Flying Fortresses deep into France during daylight Sunday to smash at an airplane engine factory at Le Mans, and U-boat works at Nantes and La Pallice.

It was the first anniversary of the first American aerial thrus against Europe in this war, when a handful of pilots borrowed hal a dozen Boston bombers from the RAF to celebrate the Fourth by hitting at German positions in northern France.

The Eighth U. S. air force raid in daylight followed a strong Saturday night assault by RAF bombers which laid a concentrated cargo of explosives on Cologne industrial districts on the east bank of the Rhine and also bombed Hamburg and other targets in the Ruhr.

The attack, which cost the RAF 32 planes, marked the breaking of a lull since June 28, when Hamburg and Cologne also were the targets.

Since then attacks had been concentrated against railway target in France, Belgium and Holland, and on coastal shipping.

The RAF left fires visible for 150 miles in the return trip to Cologne, the 188th of the war. The attack on Hamburg was the 98th.

After last Monday night's pounding, the Berlin radio declared "the attack on Cologne has entirely altered its face; all familiar landmarks have been wiped out."

Coupled with the aerial offensive was a resumption early today

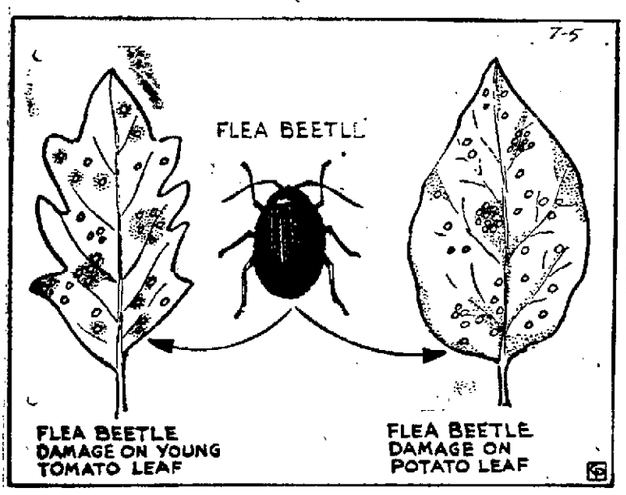
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Fight Flea Beetles In Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Released by Central Press Ass'n.

Flea beetles may have made their appearance in your Victory garden, and if so be prepared to fight them before they cause crop failures. Flea beetles do a great deal of damage by eating the foliage of vegetable plants and also carry disease from one plant to another as they move about feeding.

The potato flea beetle, for example, spreads the early potato blight, while the corn flea beetle carries the bacterial wilt of corn through a planting.

The flea beetle is small but very active and as it feeds it eats small, round holes in the leaves until they look as though they had been peppered with fine shot. Unless the beetles are checked the foliage turns yellow, wilts and, when the damage is serious, the afflicted plant dies.

Flea beetles are very destructive to potatoes and tomatoes, as well as to eggplant, spinach, peppers, cabbage, cucumbers and mint. The beetles begin to feed late in May and there are usually two generations of them a year.

Dusting or spraying the plants with rotenone will give control if thoroughly applied. The beetles are quick to detect unsprayed or undusted foliage areas and transfer their feeding activities to them. Another control method calls for spraying the plants at seven to 10-day intervals with a lime, arsenate of lead and Bordeaux mixture. Use seven to nine tablespoonsful to each gallon of water.

The foresighted Victory gardener will dip such plants as peppers, tomatoes and egg plants into Boreaux mixture when transplanting them into the garden.

Urge Placing Of Mental Defectives In Reformatory

A movement to house mental defectives at the Mansfield Reformatories and Marysville Reformatory for women was started Saturday in Cleveland.

A committee of county and city officials is working on a petition to be sent to state welfare director, Herbert R. Mooney to rid Cleveland streets of mental defectives, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Cleveland.

The group, called together by County Commissioner John F. Curry, asked quarters for the mental defectives at the two state reformatories or that institutional housing be set up in Cleveland for them.

Cuyahoga county, according to probate Judge Nelson J. Brewer, has a waiting list of more than 500 defectives who should be taken care of immediately.

The outgrowth of the rape-killing of Mary Jane Brady, 5, by Edward J. Ralph, paroled convict, the meeting was attended by county commissioners. Cleveland Welfare Federation officials, bar association members and juvenile, probate and common pleas court authorities.

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA—(By Wireless)—Not so long ago I used to wonder where all the planes, ships, tanks and men that we talked about in such gigantic numbers actually were. Now I am at the other end of the line, or rather at the end of several lines, and the results of America's production program are bountifully evident.

Flying across North Africa I have landed at or passed over numerous airfields, all servicing planes in enormous numbers. From the air some of these fields looked as if flocks of enormous birds were roosting on them. Here we are 4000 miles from the American shipping ports, yet material and men for the invasion of the continent of Europe are flowing regularly and smoothly into the concentration ports of North Africa as well as those of Britain. In Britain I saw acres of supplies in huge depots serviced by specially constructed depot railroads. In North Africa, from the west coast across more than a thousand miles of coastline, are more such depots. Harbors are busy with shipping, which is now freely using the Mediterranean.

Clapper

What I have seen both in England and here proves to me beyond question that the submarine, if not licked, is in no serious degree hindering the shipping of supplies to concentration points around the perimeter of Axis Europe.

Figures on sinkings of material bound for North Africa are unbelievably low. Allied ships loaded with supplies are now seen far inside the Mediterranean in large numbers. For the time being the submarines have ceased to be a serious problem. Use of the Mediterranean is like adding a third or more to our tonnage, because it eliminates the longest supply line in the world, which we ran around Africa.

These facts indicate a spectacular change in the Allied war position since I went across Africa a year ago. That trip had to be made through Central Africa, because the Axis had the north. We were trying to send urgent supplies by air because the shipping route was so slow. The Central African route was then an important artery, but now in a year's time it has become secondary. The Allied line has moved a thousand miles north to the coast and the Mediterranean.

A year ago production figures were in the thousands yet MacArthur in the Pacific and Stilwell in India talked in hundreds, and that was sometimes exaggeration. As far away as China I heard pitiful stories. Perhaps it has taken a long time for the flow of material to "fill up the pipe" so that the equipment coming out at the end bears some proportion to the amount rolled off the production lines.

Whatever our shortcomings in management on the home front, American production of material and movement of it and of enormous number of troops over long and dangerous supply lines is clearly a historical achievement unapproached in the last war, and probably far beyond anything Hitler ever calculated as possible.

Success in modern war depends 90 per cent on organization of a superior mass of material and men beforehand. The Tunisia campaign was delayed many months. But after a sufficient force had been assembled to achieve dominance, the actual campaign was over quickly in a joint victory for our forces in the field and the factories at home.

CALL ON BLOOD DONORS TO GIVE BIGGEST SUPPLY

At Least 600 Needed For July Visit of Cleveland Mobile Unit, Red Cross Says.

At least 600 blood donors will be needed for the July visit of the mobile Red Cross blood donor unit when the largest donation yet made by Richland county will be taken.

For the first time since the institution of the blood donor service at the local Red Cross, the mobile unit will stop here four days. On July 28, the unit will be at the Mansfield reformatory and July 29, 30 and 31 Mansfield and Richland county donors will have a chance to give their blood.

Cards requesting registered donors who gave last March or who have had to cancel appointments in the last four months to make appointments will be sent out this week. Blood donor officials have indicated they will need to have 600 persons agree to give blood if the three days are to be a success.

According to Red Cross workers in charge of the blood donor service 200 donors will be needed for each day in order to take care of cancellations. Quota for each day is 140 pints but it is possible to collect 160 pints since that many bottles are supplied for the blood donations each day by the mobile unit.

Red Cross officials have made special arrangements to bring the mobile unit here for three days this month and in August in order to take care of donors who have had, through no fault of their own, to cancel appointments during the past four months. A donor is asked to give blood once every four months. If he must cancel his appointment he does not have a chance to give for eight months.

Since they need so many donors this month, blood donor officials are asking persons who have never given blood to register at Red Cross headquarters before the end of this week. Persons who are already registered and have not given blood during the last two months may volunteer to donate blood this month.

ASSERTS OHIO DEFICIENT IN WATER SUPPLY

Harker Blames Pumping and Shortage of Rainfall For Serious Condition.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Ohio is deficient in one of nature's commonest commodities—water, David H. Harker, chief of the Ohio water supply board, reported today.

"And ordinary, workaday water sums up fundamental economies in the state's industrial life," he added, commenting on an Ohio water table survey.

Harker explained a ground water table represents the top surface of water in underground passages which is free and would be drained away if outlet were provided.

He attributed the state's shortage of water since the early 1930's to these factors:

"First, in the 1930 decade the state piled up a cumulative shortage of rainfall amounting to about 26 inches. This is a terrific deficiency and may represent all of the surplus rainfall which normally would have gone into recharge of ground water aquifers, or porous earthy material which holds and conveys ground water.

"Second, excessive pumpage has lowered the water table, down somewhat everywhere due to rainfall shortage."

Industry needs water to operate, Harker said, and when surface water is unavailable or inadequate increased pumpage reduces the underground water level.

Cincinnati's Mill Creek valley, dotted with machine tool, steel and aviation plants, and the Canton area, rich in steel factories, were cited by Harker as typical industrial communities pressed for water in manufacturing.

"In Mill Creek valley," he said, "the water table is down seriously because of the daily extraction of 19 million gallons daily from an aquifer which engineers say could supply only 12 millions.

Harker observed that reforestation and soil conservation are desirable, although limited in their value as remedial measures for water supply improvement.

"We must find ways of providing more water," he added. "We must appreciate Ohio's total water capacities and perhaps arrange for making them more flexible and more readily available. This will require construction of hydraulic works, plans for which are now only being conceived. The water supply board is working toward a solution and doubtless will have a plan to offer when the war is over. We appreciate the importance of being ready when the hour comes."

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—Max Danish, the editor of David Dubinsky's house organ, a paper in which you may be sure the worthy president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union receives considerable mention and never gets the worst of anything, has sent me a little note and a copy of the July 1 issue. The note says he thinks I might be interested in a marked item.

I'll say I am interested, and I think you might be, too, for the item not merely admits but boasts that this private, unofficial and irresponsible body in engaged in underground activity in Axis Europe, financing this work with money arbitrarily taken from the members. This is the union which last fall compelled its members to turn out for a political rally for the candidate for governor, put up by the so-called American Labor party which is American in name only and European in character under penalty of a fine of one dollar for failure to attend. No such meetings under such compulsion were held for either of the rival candidates and Dubinsky, who takes inordinate pride in the fact that he gives an accounting of the union's funds, admitted, when called, that the facts were as I have here stated them, but added that the boys weren't really serious about the fine.

Pegler

However, we can put that issue on the spike. What I want to deal with today is the union's assumption of a right to carry on espionage, sabotage and other underground activities in foreign countries.

"Mr. Pegler is painfully upset," says the little piece in Square Guy Dubinsky's paper, "by the ILGWU's contribution from its war relief fund to underground movements fighting in their homelands. Such donations, says Mr. Pegler, are mysterious and cannot be accountable. That is really too bad. We suspect that the United States government is currently likewise doing a sizable amount of supporting underground activities in Nazi-occupied Europe. As consistent anti-Fascists, we heartily indorse this action of our government. In our modest way, we propose to continue with this good work so long as the war to exterminate Nazism lasts, Mr. Pegler's displeasure notwithstanding."

Let's take this apart. It is admitted that the money used for such purposes cannot be accounted for. The members can't even be sure that it is not used for enemy purposes because international espionage is a subtle and tricky business, nor is there any way of proving to anyone that it isn't simply stolen somewhere along the line.

But I am concerned with the principle of this activity and this union's contention that because the American government employs spies, as I suppose it does, then David Dubinsky and his private organization have a right to do the same. The fact that we are at war makes no difference. Espionage is government business in war and in peace, and if a union builds up an international secret machine or joins one it certainly is not confining itself to the professed purpose of unions to protect the workers' interests in matters of wages, hours and conditions of employment.

It is meddling in matters that should be the government's business only and, moreover, there is no guarantee that the secret machine will just quietly disband and quit operations when the war is over. It would have just as much right to carry on underground operations against some friendly government whose internal policies, say its attitude on unionism, displeased Mr. Dubinsky and his friends, most of whom have a continental European background and continental revolutionary ideas, and that could kick up very serious trouble for the United States and invite reprisals by secret groups planted in our midst.

With all the money available to the government for such work it certainly is not necessary for Mr. Dubinsky and his group to levy a tax on his members to augment the government's secret activities and there is always a possibility that the private operators will cross up the government's spies, even with the best intentions, and tip off the enemy and possibly cost some lives.

How does anybody know that this money and this machine won't be used to involve the United States in troubles with other governments now or later on? Indeed, there is apparently no limit to such activities, on promoting an underground movement in the U. S. A.

FALL FATAL

War Veteran Dies of Skull Fracture at Hospital.

Injured early Saturday when he fell and struck his head on the sidewalk at Sixth and Adams streets, McKinley Swartwood, 46, of 238½ North Main street, died early Sunday at General hospital. He suffered a skull fracture.

A veteran of the first World war, Mr. Swartwood had lived in Mansfield for a number of years. He was a native of Sunbury, O.

The body is at the Finefrock funeral home. Services will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at the home of a sister, Mrs. L. L. Davidson, in Centerburg. Burial will be in the Centerburg cemetery.

Surviving are six sisters, Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Myrtle Poland, Mrs. Elizabeth Shaw, and Mrs. Daisy Hubbell, all of Centerburg; Mrs. Dale Bushong of Mt. Vernon, and Mrs. Eva Hubbell of Marengo.

SEES BIG DROP IN OHIO WHEAT

Survey Estimating Crop To Be 35 Per Cent Under Last Year.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The Columbus Dispatch said its survey of Ohio's wheat prospects showed this year's harvest would be 35 per cent below the 1943 bumper yield.

Ohio last year harvested 36,205,000 bushels from 1,767,000 acres, whereas this year only 1,643,000 acres are in wheat, the paper said the survey showed. The June 1 crop estimated was 26,162,000 bushels.

Dr. J. I. Falconer, head of Ohio State university's rural economics department, said the estimate should be reduced another 10 per cent, because of "wet weather of the past few weeks."

GUARDSMEN GET SAMPLE OF WAR

Mansfield's Company F Goes Into Training July 11 at Camp Zaleski.

Mansfield's State Guard members will get a taste of "warfare" right in Ohio when they go into training July 11 at Camp Zaleski in the hills east of Chillicothe.

Capt. Glenn L. Bierly, commander of the Mansfield unit, said he hopes all 50 men in the company will be able to go to camp for a week to receive field training with men from other units in the Third regiment from northern Ohio.

"The guard members will participate in night maneuvers and simulated battles that will help to weld them into a trained combat unit," Capt. Bierly said.

Members of Mansfield Company F will go to camp by bus, returning Sunday, July 18. Other guard units throughout the state will train at Camp Zaleski during the next two months, guardsmen from central Ohio taking over the camp this week.

DENY GOERING, FUEHRER SICK

Germans Say Reports of Illness Of Nazi Leaders False.

LONDON—(AP)—The Nazi-controlled Calais radio said today that reports of the illness of both Adolf Hitler and Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering were "completely false."

Stockholm dispatches yesterday said Goering was reported very ill from a nervous breakdown and serious heart trouble.

BERN, SWITZERLAND—Lack of any recent mention of Adolf Hitler in the German press led today to rumors he had suffered a nervous breakdown compelling him to take a rest, but this could not be confirmed through Swiss sources.

CLAIM SINKINGS

LONDON—(AP)—The German radio asserted today that German submarines have sunk four Allied merchant ships, totalling 21,000 tons, in an attack "on a very strongly protected convoy in the Mediterranean."

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, was unconfirmed by any Allied source. The date of the asserted action was not given.

When Westinghouse employes tackle a problem they do it with a will. They have just completed their Victory Book drive and when all returns were in the workers had donated 2,377 books, 30 more than the entire amount collected in the county. The book committee headed by R. O. Richards, of the industrial relations department placed a bookplate in the front of each volume bearing greetings to the service men and the name of the person who gave the book. Though no instructions have been sent from campaign headquarters for the shipping of the books, they are being packed at Westinghouse and will be shipped when instructions are received.

FUTURE IN SKY

Furniture Builders Plan to Make Tiny Post-War Planes.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—(AP)—This peace-time furniture capital sees its post-war fortune written in the sky.

More than 35,000 people—one-sixth of the metropolitan area's population—thronged the municipal airport yesterday to see put through its paces a tiny plane, the Skyfarer, which the furniture men plan to produce in quantity after the war and perhaps even for use in the war.

"Let's get married now. After the war I may not be earning $50 a month!"

Appeals Against 'Loose Talk' To Sound In City

Nine women members of the speakers' bureau of the Mansfield civilian defense war services had been asked today to go before city groups in an appeal against "loose talk" that might aid the enemy and bring death needlessly to American fighting men.

The speakers also will urge Mansfielders to guard against war-time purchasing that would encourage black markets in meat and other necessities.

Scheduled to appear before women's groups in the city during the next few weeks are Mrs. Robert Jones, Mrs. John W. Graham, Mrs. Frank Rudd, Mrs. C. F. Sheriff, Mrs. J. L. Stevens, Mrs. Gilbert Dobson, Mrs. George Hout, Mrs. Della Cochran and Miss Emma Waring.

Co-chairmen of the OCD speakers' bureau are Mrs. Jones and Mrs. John Pierce, head of the war services in the city.

While the speakers' program is being organized another branch of the war services is taking "V-home" stickers into every home in the city that qualifies by showing complete co-operation with the nation's war program.

One OCD block, in Precinct L of the First ward, already has a 100 per cent enrollment of its homes, Mrs. Pierce said. The block leader is Mrs. E. G. Pankow.

In another part of the city, Precinct E of the First ward, more than 60 per cent of the homes have qualified and are displaying stickers. Mrs. Helen Young is the block leader there.

Mrs. Pierce urged housewives who receive the stickers to display them. Unless the red, white and blue stickers are shown, the effect of the program is lost, she said.

MARY ANETTA HOLMES WEDS ENSIGN DAWSON

Open Service Read Sunday Before Altar of First Christian Church With Many Present For Ceremony.

CANDLES shone softly over a formal wedding ceremony Sunday afternoon when Miss Mary Anetta Holmes and Ensign Robert E. Dawson said their "I do's" at the altar of the First Christian church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Holmes, 462½ Bowman street, and Ensign Dawson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dawson R. D. 1, Plymouth.

Traditional white satin was worn by the bride as she was given in marriage by her father. The lovely gown was fashioned with a tight-fitting bodice, full skirt with a short train and the sweetheart neckline was trimmed with seed pearls in the shape of leaves.

Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift from the bridegroom. She wore a finger tip length veil which was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and worn virgin style.

She carried a white satin prayer book with one white orchid.

Vows were exchanged before a flower-banked altar, arranged with beauty baskets of Picardy gladoli, blue delphinium and lilies and white asters. Palms formed a background for the two seven-branch candelabra.

Nuptial music was softly played by Mrs. H. H. Clingan, organist, previous to the ceremony at 2:30 o'clock. Her selections were "Liebestraum" by Lizst, "Romance" by Rubenstein, "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice" and "Indian Love Call."

Staff Sgt. Raymond Holmes, brother of the bride, was the soloist, singing "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me," accompanied by Mrs. Clingan.

Mrs. Paul Eley of Spencerville, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid and Mrs. Eva Imler of this city, a close friend of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Imler's gown was of yellow chiffon made with short sleeves, sweetheart neckline, tight bodice and full skirt in floor length style. The bodice was fashioned with chiffon bands which ended in little bows in the front. Mrs. Eley's frock was of aqua chiffon fashioned with short sleeves, a round neckline, tight bodice and full skirt, floor length. The sleeves were styled with two small strips of ruffling. Both attendants wore a single strand of pearls.

Mrs. Imler carried a bouquet of blue delphinium and pink roses and Mrs. Eley's flowers were pink pompons, asters and white roses.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Holmes wore a street length dress of navy blue sheer with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.

Mrs. Dawson's frock was a street length powder blue sheer with white accessories. She also wore gardenias.

Ushers were Paul Eley of Spencerville and Leo Russell of Shiloh, cousin of the bridegroom. Serving as best man was Stanley Huston of Shiloh, the bridegroom's close friend. Nuptial service was read by the pastor, Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger.

Following the service a reception for 50 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. Refreshments were served buffet style from a table centered with a three tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Lighted tapers and small American flags were also table decorations.

Later in the day the couple left for a trip to Michigan. For traveling Mrs. Dawson wore a light blue alpacca sheer two piece suit, with navy blue accessories. Her corsage was of orchids. Following their wedding trip they will reside at 306 East Walnut street, Kokoma, Ind.

The bride was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and has been secretary in the office of the superintendent of schools here for several years. She is a member of the Alpha Pi Sigma sorority in Mansfield. Ensign Dawson, a flight instructor of the Naval Air Corps, Peru, Ind., was graduated from Shiloh high school and is a member of the Masonic lodge, S. and A. M., 544, Shiloh.

Colony Members Plan Breakfast Bridge Party

Colony club members, who meet this week for their annual breakfast-bridge party at the North Lake park at 10 a. m. Thursday, will take time out from war activities to engage in lighter moods. Mrs. Vern Hoffman is chairman of arrangements.

Although the club is one of the most recently organized in the city yet their membership grows steadily. The club is composed of women who move to the city as strangers, and provides a means of becoming acquainted through social life.

The club has been in existence for three years and now has a membership of 110. A large group of these meet every Wednesday at the Red Cross to roll bandages.

They have also donated funds for the furnishing of the recreation room at Camp Perry and during April and May donated cookies to be served at the U. S. O. here.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, July 6.

According to very lively operations among leading planets this is a most propitious time for laying the ground work for lasting objectives and ambitions touching the entire life, in its business, domestic and emotional developments and accomplishments. It may require quick and decisive action, using all the powers and faculties toward this end. It may be necessary to use well organized strategies against subtle and elusive influences. Strike while the iron is hot.

Those whose birthday it is are urged to work with might and main for important objectives and ambitions affecting the future progress, position and happiness in private, professional and business life. Meantime it might be wise to be so soundly and practically organized as to circumvent subtleties and obscurities even in one's own inner nature. Romantic, domestic, social and public life may be included in these strenuous activities.

A child born on this day while being energetic and practical, intellectual as well as artistic, may have deep wells of psychic and emotional impulsion affecting its outer as well as inner life. It will enjoy happiness in its affectional as well as professional associations.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ON LEADS OUT OF TURN

No division of the new Laws of Contract Bridge shows greater improvement, along the lines of common sense, than the regulations applying to leads out of turn. These are much more thoroughly, more clearly and more equitably covered than in the past codes. Here are the laws on the subject:

1. If declarer leads out of turn from either hand, either defender may call attention to the irregularity, but only the defender to the left of the hand from which declarer has led out of turn may decide whether or not it should be corrected, and the declarer may not withdraw the lead until that defender requires a lead in turn. That defender may treat the lead out of turn as a correct lead, and must treat it as such if, before he has required a lead in turn, either defender, deliberately or inadvertently, plays.

If declarer is required to correct his lead out of turn, the card wrongly led is replaced in the hand to which it belongs; and (a) if it was a defender's turn to lead, there is no penalty; (b) if declarer has led from the wrong hand, he must, if he can, lead a card of the same suit from the correct hand. Correct procedure under (b) dictates that the lefthand defender, when requiring declarer to lead from his own hand, should name that suit which declarer is by law obligated to lead, if that defender fails to do so, and if neither defender, before his side has played, questions declarer regarding a possible revoke if he leads another suit, the lead stands as a correct lead.

2. If a defender leads out of turn, declarer may treat the card so led as a correct lead, and must treat it as such if he plays a card from either hand, deliberately or inadvertently, to the lead. If he requires a lead in turn, he may (a) if it was the other defender's turn to lead, treat the card led out of turn as a penalty card, or require or forbid the correct leader to lead a specified suit; (b) if it was a contractor's turn to lead, treat the card led out of turn as a penalty card, or announce that he will impose a lead penalty when next it is a defender's turn to lead, at which time he may require or forbid the lead of a specified suit. If he selects the penalty-card option, any card may be led; if he selects the lead penalty, the card wrongly led may be picked up.

If the wrong defender makes the opening lead (a) should dummy expose any of his cards before declarer has named the penalty, declarer may treat the card led out of turn as a penalty card, but may not impose a lead penalty unless the card is a jack or higher (if it is, he may forbid the opening lead of that suit, in which event the penalty card may be picked up); (b) should declarer expose three or more of his cards, play continues as if no irregularity had occurred and dummy becomes declarer; (c) should declarer treat the out of turn lead as a correct lead, dummy should forthwith expose his hand.

Couple Announce Engagement Of Dorothy Marting

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Marting, Akron, who formerly resided in Mansfield, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Luella Marting, to Pfc. Richard I. Ong, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Ong, 142 Clemmer avenue.

The young couple was recently chosen to feature the "Home America Lives" series of articles running in Ladies' Home Journal. They will exemplify a typical engaged couple, their story appearing in the August issue.

Miss Marting is a graduate of Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., where she majored in kindergarten and social work. She has also taken the marriage course and several economic classes offered at Stephens. The magazine picked Stephens college from which to choose a typical engaged American girl because its curriculum includes so many courses designed to aid marriage preparation. Miss Marting was one of five women at the college considered for the feature.

Mr. Ong is stationed at the U. S. Army Air base in Alpena, Mich., but is awaiting orders to attend officers' training school for the infantry. He attended Akron university for two years.

The typical co-ed was given a trip by airplane to New York by the magazine and another from the college to Akron, where pictures were taken of her home life.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Marting will be remembered here as the former Bertha Barr of Mansfield.

Visits Parents

MISS BETTY MARIE JONES

Miss Jones of Houston, Texas, will spend the summer visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Jones, 359 Park avenue west, who are newcomers to the city. Miss Jones plans to resume her studies at the University of Texas in the fall.

Buckeye Garden Club Plans Show

Sixteen members of the Buckeye Garden club met for luncheon at the home of Mrs. Thornton Lake, Maumee avenue, Friday. After a short business meeting, Mrs. Leonard Hautzenroeder discussed the plans being made for the Harvest Show to be held at the armory, Sept. 11 and 12.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Louis Wenger, who presented an interesting paper on "Varieties for Late Planting." Next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Donald Frampton, 603 Braeburn road, on July 16, with Mrs. Earl Gaar presenting the program.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I sat up abruptly, and my husband slipped his arm around my shoulders. "Steady, old dear!" he admonished me. "This isn't a fire alarm, you know."

"What time is it?" I asked a bit dazedly.

"Quarter of two," he replied. "Dad has arranged with the Western Union office for the boy with the message ostensibly from you to deliver it to Ruth Hayes at one minute of two o'clock. From then on, we'll be on the watch for her.

I swung my feet over the side of the couch and Dicky, stooped and retrieved my shoes.

"Put out your right foot, please, Madame," he said, and in another half minute, my shoes were on. I rose from the couch, and mechanically smoothed my hair back, tucking in the loosened hairpins.

"The well-groomed woman, even when half asleep!" Dicky gibed. I put another question.

"Will she telephone, do you think?"

"Here's the answer to that," he said. "I knew your curiosity would be rampaging around, so I asked Dad to make a copy of the message he sent to her signed with your name."

"Thank you," I said, ignoring the gibe about my curiosity, and taking the form, read its contents.

"To Ruth Hayes," it ran, and following the address came the message:

"Mrs. Bickett too ill to keep her appointment with you. She will come tomorrow morning at the same time if you send me a written message to that effect. No use trying to telephone. The wires to our apartment have been disconnected." Then there followed the signature: "Margaret Graham, Hotel Lansfield."

"She won't like that," I said, and Dicky snorted scornfully.

" 'Like' is a feeble word," he said. "She'll loathe and abhor it. She'll waste no time getting over here, and she probably has all her plans laid for just such a contingency."

"Katharine's asleep, I suppose," I said, folding the paper and handing it back to him.

"I can't vouch for it," he replied with a grin. "I haven't heard her snore. But Dad turned the next suite over to her three hours ago, and she turned the key in the lock. Beyond that this deponent knoweth naught. What more can I tell you?"

"Everything there is to know!" I told him. "Remember I've been asleep for hours."

"Well let's see!"—my husband began to tick points off on his fingers—"Dad is in the next room. Two men are on the balcony, and they certainly will be a surprise—and a headache—to Milner, if he's planning to send any strong arm beauties up there in readiness for any summons Ruthie may decide to flash them. I have put a chair in the closet, with a small table on it, and reposing on the table—are (a) a paper cup of ice water,—if you spill it, there won't be any sound of breaking glass; (b) a package of cough lozenges; (c) the clothespins for your nose of which I spoke before, if you have an impulse to sneeze, also some of my largest handkerchiefs. And if I hear a cough or a sneeze, or even a loud breath out of you, watch the judge put on the black cap, and may the Lord have mercy on your soul, for I won't."

"I'm awake now," I said, seating myself in a comfortable chair, "so you don't need to delay telling him."

"Okay," he said, and the next minute my father was in the room, and, with Dicky, had seated himself near me. But it was nearly half past two when two short knocks, thrice repeated, sounded on the door.

"That's Collins," my father said, rising and crossing the room swiftly. "The Hayes woman must be in the building."

MANY ENGAGE IN WAR ACTIVITIES IN CITY

Tribute Should Be Paid to Thousands of Mansfield Women Who Volunteer Services In Time of Stress.

ON THE 167th anniversary of Independence, let us pay tribute to the women of Mansfield, who are taking an increasingly important part in the nation's war effort. Their duties on the home front here have grown greatly.

Great events have always carried women forward in their quest to find a secure place in these fields of endeavor. Nevertheless, their primary instinct has been, and still is, to maintain and protect their homes, families and communities.

Wars have always brought new responsibilities to women. They served for the first time in the Civil War as nurses at the front and on hospital staffs; they prepared bandages for the wounded; they moulded bullets.

They greatly extended their services in the first World war. Women became ambulance drivers, munition factory workers, ammunition inspectors, doctors and members of the home-defense committees, welfare associations and recreational associations.

In surveys and studies it has been discovered that women can satisfactorily perform almost any type of work.

Now with the world involved in the greatest war it has ever known, the field of women's activities has grown even wider.

While the number of women presently engaged in work in war activities is small in comparison with the estimated number which ultimately will find employment, they are now found in jobs which are picturesque and unique—but always vital—in character.

Women are conducting experiments in the preservation of foodstuffs; engaged in nutrition programs and studies, collecting valuable salvage, furthering the cause of victory gardens, promoting the share-the-ride program and many other phases necessary at this time.

Yet these same women need the relaxation and recreation that social activities with congenial companions can give them. If social life in the city has been curtailed, at least it has only taken it's natural place in a time of stress.

Mansfield women are engaged in all phases of Red Cross work as well as various branches of Civilian Defense, which includes, child care, health, recreation, transportation, welfare, consumers' groups, USO, War Bonds and many others.

Thus, again, we must recognize the importance of Mansfield women engaged in war activities on the anniversary of this day of Independence!

BUCYRUS PARKS CROWDED OVER 2-DAY HOLIDAY

Baseball Game Between Camp Millard Teams Highlight of Sunday Program.

BUCYRUS—Kept at home by restricted travel, a holiday crowd which numbered in the thousands spent July 4th and 5th at Aumiller park in Bucyrus, and at Seccaium park, east of the city. A large group of Bucyrians also attended the private outing at Bucyrus Country club Monday.

A hardball game between the 756th and 758th railroad battalions at Camp Millard highlighted the Aumiller park afternoon program. Swimming and other park entertainment facilities provided diversion. The day's program was climaxed with a huge fireworks display in the evening, sponsored by the Bucyrus "B" club. Band concerts and free acts also provided entertainment.

Dancing and the park rides provided amusement at Seccaium park with fireworks to top the program.

A flag tournament was followed by a picnic in the grove for Country club members and invited guests.

BUCYRUS — Announced today is the marriage of Miss Kathryn Bitler, nurse at Bucyrus City hospital, and Ward B. West of Bucyrus, whoch took place Friday evening in First Presbyterian church. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Brunger.

Mrs. West is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bitler of Tiffin, and Mr. West is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert West of Coshocton.

SHELBY MARKS QUIET FOURTH, NO CELEBRATION

Playgrounds Close, Leaders Plan Treasure Hunt For Later In Week.

SHELBY—A treasure hunt for the younger children and a picnic for the older girls will feature the activities at the Shelby summer playgrounds this week. Both the treasure hunt and picnic will be held Friday.

The playgrounds were closed today in observance of the Fourth of July, but will be open as usual during the remaining part of the week.

No celebration planned by the merchants today because of the war.

Appropriate services were held at the churches. Dr. D. Bruce Young, pastor of First Lutheran church, preached at the First Methodist church in the absence of the pastor, Rev. George C. Beebe, who is spending some time in Boston, Mass., working on his master's degree during July. His wife is enjoying the vacation there for her health.

The business places here continued closed today in observance of the Fourth of July.

Only offices open in the city building were the rationing department which continued to operate as usual although all other offices were closed.

Seltzer park swimming pool has been filled to capacity over the week-end as the residents sought to avoid the heat.

A total enrollment of 313 children at Central and Hayes school playgrounds has brought the total attendance for the three weeks of operation to 2,005.

The New York team leads the baseball league with eight wins and six losses. Washington and Chicago are tied for second place. St. Louis holds fourth place.

FORMER SHELBY TEACHER WEDS LIEUTENANT IN KENTUCKY RITE

SHELBY—The marriage of Miss Mildred Alice Gortney, former Shelby high school home economics' teacher, to Lieut. Zebrum Slusher Dickerson of the U. S. Army was announced today.

The double ring ceremony took place on Saturday, June 26, at the Christian church in Harrodsburg, Ky., the home of the bride. Attending the couple were Miss Esther Dillman of Fort Thomas, Ky., and Fred Dickerson of Prestonburg, Ky., brother of the bridegroom.

The bride, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Oscar Gortney of Harrodsburg, graduated from the high school there and Eastern Kentucky State Teachers' college. She had been employed in Shelby high school during the past year.

The bridegroom also attended the Eastern Kentucky State Teachers' college. He is stationed at Camp Rucker, Ala., where the couple will make their home after enjoying a wedding trip to Florida.

GALION TO HAVE PARADE TODAY

Independence Day Program Takes Place at Heise Park; Ball Game Planned.

GALION — With fair weather, Galion was all set today for a big celebration of the Fourth of July, the third annual event to be sponsored by the Galion Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The day's program starts at 2 p. m., with a parade from the Big Four depot to Gill avenue, and then to Heise park.

At the park at 3 p. m., a horse show, eight classes, stunts and entertainment on the athletic field will take place.

An ox roast will be served at 4:30 p. m., sandwiches and free lemonade to be served in the west section of the park at the mobile kitchen.

A baseball game between Galion and Iberia will be played at 6:30 p. m., followed with a horse pulling contest at 8 o'clock tonight. Four $25 War Bonds will be awarded at 9 p. m. in front of the grandstand.

A miniature circus will have free acts on the athletic field at 9:30 p. m. when a majorette bond queen will be crowned.

At 11 p. m., a street dance is slated for the public square. Fred Judd and his orchestra will furnish music.

Events will close at midnight when a $50 War Bond is given away on the public square.

The Jaycees were assisted in planning the observance by the Galion Merchants' association, American Legion, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

This doesn't seem quite right—returning from a vacation on the 4th of July—which comes on the 5th this year.

But thousands of Americans who haven't had a vacation and who never worked before on the 4th of July—which comes on the 5th—are doing it this year.

So now I am only one of thousands, instead of one of the group of numerous newspaper men who work every 4th of July and every other holiday.

The holiday working circle expands, and the lowly typewriter tapper has less to cry about than formerly I'll try not to shed more tears than the occasion seems to call for.

But when you gotta go to work at 4 o'clock in the a. m. so the public can have its early holiday paper, a few tears would seem to be in order.

I'm convinced now that they gave me my vacation when they did just so I could save up enough strength to open my peepers at this ghastly hour of the morning.

And how was the vacation? Just fine, thank you. And how did you enjoy the respite from reading this stuff? Well, that's nice.

I had planned my usual program of golf in the morning, swimming in the afternoon, and sleep at night. The golf and sleep worked out okay, but the cold wave put a crimp in the swimming. So to vary the program a bit, I thought I'd do a little skating, but the ice on Liberty pool was just a mite rubbery.

In fact a few kids had broken the crust and fallen in, and were enjoying themselves and keeping warm in a frenzied sort of way, but that didn't cut any ice with me.

As for the golf—I merely discovered again that if you want to play golf in the daytime you have to take some one along. You don't find many people to play with before 6 in the evening.

So one day I took my young son Dave along, and on another occasion I even talked my manager into swinging the Scotch batons. But I fear she will never be a golfer.

She battled around Coolridge's 9-hole layout in 111 strokes, and NEVER CUSSED ONCE!

And the sleep? One night I must have realized I hadn't written the Sport Podge for the next day. A whole night of nightmare was spent trying to write a column—and then losing the copy. So while a lot of these columns may sound like nightmares, you'll never read the one I wrote that night.

* * *

Just to wind things up right, they were going to have a covered-dish luncheon at Coolridge yesterday at 1 p. m., so my manager baked a cake, and of course you know what the weather did.

So we stayed home, cut our cake, and ate it too—a big chunk of it.

But we still get two shots at this 4th of July—that comes on the 5th—so a happy good 4th to you.

St. Louis Wins Flag Already

At Least That's What They Say In National.

By JUDSON BAILEY

IN BASEBALL there is an old saying that the club which leads the league on the Fourth of July will win the pennant, but in the National League there is a new saying—that the club which led the league on the Fourth of July already has won the pennant.

* * *

The St. Louis Cardinals battered the Brooklyn Dodgers twice yesterday to complete a sweep of their three game series in Ebbets Field and today were on top by four full games.

A year ago the Cardinals, even with Johnny Beazley, Terry Moore and Enos (Country) Slaughter in the lineup, were 9½ games back of Brooklyn. They came on to win sensationally and spoiled the old Fourth of July legend. But they created the new one to take its place, because few persons think the Redbirds ever will be stopped now.

The games yesterday seemed to break the backbone of Brooklyn's pennant hopes. Having lost on Saturday to Mort Cooper, the Dodgers banked heavily on getting at least a split yesterday before the day's biggest crowd in the major leagues, 32,387 paid. The total turnout in the two leagues was 131,058.

In the first game Manager Leo Durocher started old Curt Davis, who had pitched 19 scoreless innings, against Lefty Howie Pollet of the Cardinals, who had pitched a shutout in his last start, too. For nine innings these two talented hurlers struggled in a gruelling, scoreless duel.

Then in the tenth the Cards clustered four hits and won 2-0 while Pollet completed a three-hit job and his second straight shutout. In the second game the Cards simply made duck-soup of the Dodgers, winning 7-2 with Max Lanier pitching six-hit ball and his teammates getting ten, including home runs by Walker Cooper, Whitey Kurowski and Danny Litwhiler.

The New York Yankees managed to hold a one-game advantage at the top of the American league by splitting a doubleheader at Detroit while the second place Washington Senators were getting pushed around twice at St. Louis.

In the Detroit show Ernie Bonham, the big Yankee ace, pitched four-hit ball for a 1-0 shutout in the first game but Frank (Stubby) Overmire, the Tigers' rookie star, retaliated with a five-hit 6-0 whitewashing in the nightcap.

Washington was beaten 4-2 and 10-3 by the Browns, whose recent spurt has brought them 18 victories in 27 games although they have moved only to seventh place in the standings. Chet Laabs hit two of the five home runs the two games produced.

The Chicago White Sox swept two games from the Philadelphia Athletics, who now have lost eight straight and 10 of their last 11. Lefty Thornton Lee pitched six-hit ball to win the first 5-2 and Orval Grove gave up only three safeties in taking the nightcap 5-1. It was his sixth success without a defeat.

Boston at Cleveland was postponed.

The Boston Braves paddled the Pittsburgh Pirates twice 3-1 and 13-0 with Red Barrett pitching four-hit ball in the first game and Jim Tobin allowing just six hits in the second, in which he himself hit a home run, a double and a single to lead a 15-hit attack.

The New York Giants beat Cincinnati 6-5 in ten innings in the first game of a doubleheader, but Ed Heusser held New York to seven hits as the Reds won the second session 6-2. The two contests spawned seven home runs, one of them by Mel Ott giving him the major league lead with 11 for the season. Ray Mueller hit two in the first game, Max Marshall hit one in each game and Ernie Lombardi and Frank McCormick each collected one.

Si Johnson beat the Chicago Cubs 2-1 with five-hit pitching, but the Phillies were beaten in the second contest 5-2 as Bill Lee held them to seven hits, two of which were homers by Buster Adams and Schoolboy Rowe.

Barrett May Join Phils, Report

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies were reported today to be engineering a deal with the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast league for Pitcher Dick (Kewpie) Barrett, whom the Chicago Cubs turned back to the West Coast club earlier in the season.

Bill Cox, Phillies president, announced that the deal with the Pittsburgh Pirates for Catcher Babe Phelps has been called off, with Phelps refusing to leave his farm at Odenton, Md.

Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Cubs had a chance to get Jess Flores from Los Angeles but selected Dick Barrett, Jim Hanyzewski and Ray Prim. Flores got off to a much better early season start with the A's then did the others with the Cubs.

Edward W. Krause, basketball coach at Notre Dame, will continue to assist Frank Leahy in football.

Southworth Picks Gardeners

Billy Southworth, manager of the world champion Cardinals, says best National league outfielders are (left to right) Stan Musial, Danny Litwhiler and Harry Walker.

* * * * *

Names Litwhiler, Walker, Musial Best In National

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—If Manager Billy Southworth of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals had the choice of the National league's outfielders, he'd take his own trio—Stan Musial, Harry Walker and Danny Litwhler—with pardonable pride and prejudice.

As the best of the rest, Southworth picks Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants and two of Brooklyn's gardeners, Fred Walker and Augie Galan, for top honors based on their performances in games with the Cardinals.

"These outfielders against my ball club always have been the very best," he said.

In a pat explanation of why the Cardinals made the recent trade with Philadelphia for Litwhiler, Southworth called him "the all-around best right-handed outfielder in the league."

Of the other five in Billy's top group, Galan is a switch-hitter—"and that makes him all the more valuable" — and the others are left-handed batters.

Southworth's ratings were noteworthy not only because he is a successful manager and an astute observer but because he once was a first-rank fly-chaser himself. He played with Cleveland, Pittsburgh, the Boston Braves, the New York Giants and the Cardinals during his major league career and one season led the National league in fielding.

His selections paid a big compliment to the Walker family since Fred (Dixie) and Harry (Little Dixie) are brothers.

Here's Southworth's personal appraisal of each of the players he nominated:

Ott—"The finest all-around outfielder in the business and has been for years. He needs no recommendation as to outfield ability. He has a fine throwing arm, both for distance and accuracy. At bat he does all things well. He has fine power and can hit to all fields as he might choose. He is capable of hitting out of any park in the league and he always is around the top in home runs. Ott uses excellent judgment on the bases. He has slowed up some but he knows how and when to take chances and he is seldom thrown out.

Fred Walker—"In all series between Brooklyn and the Cardinals he is the most valuable cog in the Dodger machine. A fine outfielder, he come up with great catches against us. His arm is not exceptionally strong but he's accurate and he had thrown some of our men out on plays that required excellent handling of the ball and accurate throwing. He is a power at bat. He's the kind of fellow who keeps digging in, always doing something at the plate. He uses excellent judgment on the bases and is a good runner."

Galan—"A fine outfielder, he covers the maximum territory in center field and does all things well—going in, back and equally well to both sides. He is a fine fielder of ground balls. His arm, while not great, is accurate and few base runners would choose to advance on him in expectation of a bad throw. At bat he hits the ball hard for a man of his size and weight. He hits either right or left, which is an advantage. He is a hard man to dispose of. He seldom strikes out and always gets a piece of the ball. He is fast and knows how to run the bases."

Musial—"He is proving himself a great sun-fielder. He is very fast and covers a maximum of territory. His arm is good enough although not exceptionally strong but he throws accurately. At bat he can bunt or hit for extra bases. He can put the ball out of any park in the league. On the bases he has good judgment, good reflexes and knows how and when to run."

Harry Walker—"He is a good fly-chaser and covers center field very admirably. He has one of the best throwing arms in baseball. He seems to be coming into his own as a great hitter. He isn't a power hitter but he hits timely and hard to all fields. His fine speed enables him to get doubles and triples with consistent regularity. He hasn't played long enough to apply his ability to his own best advantage. That comes with experience, which he is getting."

* * *

Litwhiler—"He made the most remarkable record for an outfielder in modern baseball history when he went through the entire year of 1942 without making a single error. He is capable of covering the maximum territory in left field. He has a fine arm and throws accurately. At bat he has fine power and hits for extra bases and to all fields. He can hit the ball out of any park and has done so. He is very fast and I wasn't a bit surprised to learn that he was the fastest man on the Philadelphia club."

Hambletonian Favorite Goes

Nation's Best Young Trotters Race Today.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Eleven crack three-year-old trotters, including Hambletonian favorite Volo Song, will line up in today's $9,000 American Stake, feature event on North Randall's grand circuit track.

Post time will be 2:30 p. m. (Eastern War Time) set following a decision late yesterday by track officials, that twilight racing would be abandoned for the remainder of the North Randall meeting.

Venerable Trainer Ben White will pilot Volo Song in the feature trot, his first time up behind the celebrated trotter in the meeting. When Volo Song won handily in opening day's Matron Stakes, Trainer White was ill and hospitalized.

Top-flight reinsmen scheduled to drive in the American stake include Sep Palin, Tommy Berry, Henry Thomas, Vic Fleming, Harry Pownall, Fred Egan and Paul Vineyard.

Trotters expected to vie with Volo Song, last year's two-year-old trotting champion, are Worthy Boy, Hester Hanover, Good on Gray, Dean Sheppard, the Nutcracker, Nedwin, Darnley, Milt Hanover, Phonograph and Chucklin.

The field includes virtually every topflight three-year-old trotter except Austin Hanover, not entered in the meeting.

Other purses in today's program total $5,000.

Texas Aggies Carrying On

Coach Loses Players But Retains Game.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—(AP)—If you were a football coach and found the armed services had left you only three lettermen—and that most of your freshman prospects hadn't stayed long enough to sweat down their jerseys—what would your attitude be on sports?

Yeah, many coaches not only would be looking for jobs in defense plants or commissions in the army but expressing the opinion that athletics should be suspended in wartime. Some probably would opine that sports wouldn't be patriotic anyway.

Well, there is no change in the attitude of soft-spoken Homer Norton, headman of Texas A. and M., who faces the next grid season with about the slimmest prospects in the history of the college.

"I think athletics are patriotic and have a definite place in wartime," said the mentor of the once-mighty Aggies. "The athletes make fine soldiers and we should continue to develop young manhood in all the fields of sport. We'll take lickings next fall, but what of it? We're fighting for the greatest championship of all now and defeats in football mean little if we are developing the youth of the country for the great task ahead."

* * *

You can't call this flag-waving because Norton has much at stake. He makes his living, you know, by coaching football teams. Coaches, you know also, need to keep their records up.

There will be no one at A. and M. college hurt by defeats like Homer Norton. But he's ready to go on; in fact, he insists on it.

The Aggies—what there are of them—will be in there fighting, is the word from the headman of Kyle field.

Henry Armstrong, former featherweight, lightweight and welterweight champion, drew gates of $425,000 in his first 22 comeback attempts.

Diver Has Favorite Race Role

Gives 8 To 21 Pounds To Rest of Field.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Mrs. Payne Whitney's Devil Diver, king of the eastern route runners, was a strong favorite today to win the $50,000 Stars and Stripes handicap.

A field of 16 was named in the overnight entries for this first of five $50,000 stakes to be run during the combined Arlington-Washington meetings, and a crowd of 35,000 was expected to jam Washington park for the holiday card, proceeds of which will be turned over to war relief agencies and local charities.

Devil Diver had top impost of 124 pounds, giving up from eight to 21 pounds to the rest of the field. He was expected to go to the post in the run of a mile and an eighth probably little better than even money.

* * *

Among his chief challengers were Coward and Dupuy's 7-year-old gelding, Marriage; Louis B. Mayer's Thumb Up and King's Abbey; A. C. Ernst's greatly improved 4-year-old colt, Aletern; and 4-year-old Sun Again, which, in the absence of Whirlaway, will carry the Calumet Farm colors.

If all 16 start, the stake's gross value will be $64,000, netting the winner $46,550, with $10,000 for second, $5,000 for third and $2,500 for fourth.

Winner of four stakes in his last five starts, including the toboggan, Metropolitan and Brooklyn, the 4-year-old Devil Diver now rates the No. 1 position in the Greentree Stable, a ranking he originally was scheduled for until his stablemate, Shut Out, stole the play last season.

The Stars and Stripes was to have renewed the rivalary of Whirlaway and Alsab, but two weeks ago Mrs. Al Sabath said her horse would not be ready until later in the season, and last week Whirly abruptly was retired.

* * *

However, Mr. Long Tail, the world's leading money winner, will make a farewell appearance today. He will come out on the track for a brief ceremony, in which his owner, Warren Wright, will be presented a plaque to be hung over Whirlaway's stall at Calumet Farm.

Indians Drop To Seventh

Idle Tribe Slides In Junior Standings.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Still only three and a half games off the American League pace, the Cleveland Indians celebrated Independence day yesterday by dropping into a tie for seventh place.

Weather conditions cancelled a double header with Boston, and Philadelphia's cellar - dwelling Athletics moved into town for today's holiday twin bill, opening a four-game stand.

Resting comfortably in third place Saturday, the Tribe lost a heart-breaker to Boston Saturday night and called off yesterday's program before an estimated 30,000 fans after one man was out in the first inning.

Jim Bagby will seek his eighth victory today against six defeats, opposing Orrie Arntzen in the opener. Vernon Kennedy or Al Milnar will get the second game assignment against Righthander Luman Harris.

Babe Ruth set a world series record as a pitcher by hurling 29 consecutive scoreless innings.

In Front Again

Twenty yards ahead of Gil Dodds, divinity student and ace U. S. distance runner, Gunder Haegg breaks the tape, above, at the end of a two-mile race in Soldier Field, Chicago. His time was 9:2.8, 15 seconds slower than world's record.

WESTBROOK MIXED TOURNEY SET TODAY

Westbrook Country club's two-ball mixed foursome golf tournament scheduled for July the 4th, was necessarily postponed by weather until today. With the double holiday, the postponement makes little difference in original plans, and the tourney is booked for 1 p. m. today.

Shortly after he won the lightweight boxing championship, Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia was asked whom he thought was then the most popular man in his home town. He answered: Bucky Harris. Bucky manages the rampaging Phillies.

Dykes Picks His Fielders

* * * * *

Calls Keller, Wakefield, Cramer Best In American

By CHIP ROYAL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK—Two rookies are among the first six outfielders in the American league this year in the opinion of Jimmy Dykes, White Sox manager who has been watching the junior loop flychasers for 25 years.

"We haven't any really perfect outfielders this year," declared Dykes. "By that, I mean a man who excels in hitting, fielding, throwing, and base running.

"Charlie Keller of the Yankees is the best of the lot. Then I would take Dick Wakefield and Doc Cramer of the Tigers. Right behind these three come George Case of the Senators, my own Thurman Tucker, and Jeff Heath of Cleveland."

All the six outfielders selected by Dykes are left-handed hitters. Wakefield and Tucker are playing their first years in the majors. Keller has been with the Yankees since 1939. Cramer is one of the real veterans, having been around since he broke in with the Athletics in 1929. Case started with the Senators in 1937, and Heath with the Indians the same year.

Dykes admitted that none of this year's clever chasers could compare with Ted Williams or Joe DiMaggio who have gone to war. The nearest approach to a successor for the American league's top-notchers is Wakefield.

"That boy Wakefield should be one of the game's greatest outfielders," said Dykes. "A little fielding polish is all he needs. He can hit with the best of them, has a good arm which we discovered much to our sorrow in a recent game, and is one of the fastest men in the league. He isn't a good fielder yet but he will be, with a little practice, and then he'll really go places."

Of the others, Dykes said:

"Keller hits a long ball and is always dangerous up there at the bat. His batting average hasn't been too high for the last few years but his lifetime mark is still over .300. One of these days he'll set his sights and become the clouter he appears to be. The only thing he lacks as a perfect outfielder is a strong throwing arm.

* * *

"Doc Cramer has amazed me so long with his consistenly good playing that I expect to see him go on forever. They said he was all done a few years back but I notice he's still out there, pulling them down in all parts of the field. He is as fast as ever, and has been hitting around .300 for the last 12 years. His throwing arm will rank with any in the league. For a man who will be 37 years old July 22, he is doing all right.

* * *

"Case is one the fastest outfielders we have, but I wouldn't say that he is the fastest, George can hit fairly well, and his speed will get him many infield hits. He covers a lot of ground out in the field, but his throwing arm is weak, and he is only a fair fielder.

Tucker Carries the Mail.

"Tucker should be a star some day. Even though he is on my own team, I like him as much as any outfielder I could name. The boy can run as fast as Case. When he bunts, he really carries that mail to first base. He has a very good arm and his fielding is improving. He still has to prove that he is a hitter, and I think he will. Then he'll be tough to keep out of any all-star outfield.

* * *

"Heath could be an outstanding ballplayer if he wanted to hustle. He is a better-than-average flychaser. He can field with the best of them. He has a good arm. He is fast and can hit better than .300 on an average but his temperament keeps him from becoming great."

* * *

The American league outfielders as a whole are much weaker this year, Dykes finds. He says most of the boys are worrying too much about the arrival of that draft card in the morning mail and it has affected their play.

"We won't have any truly great outfielders again until after the war," concluded the White Sox manager.

Phil Handler Named Cardinal Coach

CHICAGO —(AP)— Phil Handler was named coach of the Chicago Cardinals National Football league yesterday, succeeding Jimmy Conzelman who resigned several weeks ago to join the St. Louis Browns baseball club.

* * *

Handler, 34 years old, becomes the youngest mentor in the professional league. He has been Conzelman's assistant as line coach, a position he has held since the end of the 1936 season when Milan Creighton was running the Cards.

* * *

Handler played as a guard with the Cardinals from 1930 through 1936 and has been with the organization 13 years. He is a graduate of Texas Christian university, is married and has two children.

Joe Gordon says George Stirnweiss, Yankee rookie, will make a great shortstop when he gets over his nervousness at playing in the major league.

Ray Star of the Reds wears number 37 on his uniform. That happens to be the age of the Reds' pitcher.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Since this is when Independence Day is being celebrated at the ball parks, let's look back to baseball's greatest one-man July 4 anniversary. . . . Back in 1912, George Mullin of Detroit celebrated July 4 by pitching a no-hit game against the Browns—and at the same time he celebrated his 32nd birthday. . . . The Empire City and Arlington Park Racing associations are donating their entire holiday receipts to war relief today but neither track will be opened. The Empire meetings is at Jamaica and Arlington at Washington park. . . . Detroit's Bloomfield Hills country club has put through a rule limiting players to a dozen clubs, a half dozen balls and light canvas bags to ease the burden on undersized caddies.

WEEK'S WORST GAG

Ossie Bluege, manager of the Senators and probably the only public accountant ever to pilot a major league baseball club, specializes in taxation work. . . . That must be why the Senators' games are taking the capacity of Griffith stadium.

MONDAY MATINEE

Mile-a-minute Murphy, who set a bicycle record that still stands 44 years ago when he pedalled a mile in 57 4-5 seconds behind a Long Island railroad train, is working in a Jamaica, L. I., aircraft plant. . . . And a lot of guys riding those trains today probably figure that Murphy merely was trying to get out to the track before the daily double closed. . . . Oklahoma's high school football coaches are trying to find enough of last year's all-state players, or adequate substitutes, who aren't in uniform to stage their annual North-South game Aug. 27. . . . Ralph Zanelli, the Providence welterweight does his training in two states—he performs his road work in Rhode Island but moves into a Boston gym for sparring. . . . Marise farm, Lou Tufano's New Jersey breeding establishment, got its name from the first and last syllables of Market Wise, who'll retire to stud there when his racing career ends.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Ray Mustek, Ocala (Fla) Banner: "If the University of Alabama loses any more of its coaches, the 1943 grid squad will be larger than the coaching staff."

ROUGH TRAINING

Nixson Denton, the Cincinnati Times-Star sports ed., tells this one but doesn't vouch for it. . . . Seems that Golfer Carl Landwehr spent some time last spring training his Irish Terrier to retrieve golf balls. . . . Recently he went out for a round of golf, taking the pup along, but every time he swatted the ball, the dog raced out and brought it back. Tiring of this game, Landwehr sat down at the edge of the rough and casually tossed a stone into some deep grass. . . . The terrier went after it and returned with a golf ball in its mouth. . . . Landwehr caught on immediately and when he started home his bag bulged with 15 balls retrieved by the dog.

SERVICE DEPT.

The Iowa pre-flight school "station's ship" is the navy's latest addition to the University of Iowa athletic setup. It's a semi-enclosed structure that will house six boxing rings. . . . When Sid Davis, sports columnist of the Camp Davis, N. C., "AAA Barrage" visited Parris Island, he asked some marines what they thought of Maj. Tuss McLaughry, former Dartmouth grid coach who supervises physical training at the marine base. "He's tops," came the answer. "Nothing we wouldn't do for him." . . . Birdie Tebbetts, ex-Tigers catcher who pilots the Waco, Tex., army flying school baseball team, figures the discipline and regular living of army life helps ball players. "It would do untold good to some great and slightly temperamental ball players I've known if they could have six months of army life," Birdie says.

Stable Has Top Impost

Greentree Entry Liked In Handicap.

BOSTON—(AP)—With Greentree stable's Shut Out and Lou Tufano's Market Wise hailed as possible winners of today's ninth running of the $50,000 added Massachusetts handicap—richest stake of the New England turf season—many racing fans are set to go to Suffolk Downs and bet against the favorites.

* * *

Today's race, as in the past, may turn out to be a field day for the short-end bettors. Patrons remember that only two favorites ever have won the famous handicap—Seabiscuit in 1937 and Whirlaway last year—and that both paid off at one dollar per dollar.

* * *

Shut Out and Market Wise go to the post at 5:30 this afternoon equally weighted at 126 pounds and heading a field of ten. The public feels this pair will battle it out to the wire, despite eight other promising horses competing against them. It is expected the holiday throng will surpass 40,000 and send more than $1,000,000 through the mutuel machines.

A good performance is hoped for from Attention, in at 118 pounds, and recently acquired by William Helis. Attention is bracketed as an entry with Salto, another performer from the Helis barn, which gets in lightly at 103.

New York tracks are represented by Don Bingo, sporting the colors of Bing Crosby and Lin Howard, and Townsend B. Martin's Bankrupt, which will carry 107 pounds.

* * *

New Englanders hopes are centered on Abbe Pierre, owned by Hazel M. Babylon, of Rhode Island, and carrying 111 pounds. Other New England entries include Mrs. Ray Feinberg's Firebroom, in at 108; L. B. Sheppard's Improved Kansas, which will carry 101; and A. B. Plock's Woodford Lad, lightly weighted at 102.

Jockey Steve Brooks will ride Shut Out while Van Nodarse has been chosen to handle Market Wise.

Slip Madigan Starts Anew

Won't Predict Good Team For Hawkeyes.

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(AP)—Edward Patrick Madigan, "Slip" to the football world, lost no time today in picking up the coaching reins he dropped three years ago.

In his second day on the University of Iowa campus where he will coach the Hawkeyes of '43, he scheduled long sessions with Athletic Director E. G. "Dad" Schroeder for discussions of the team's prospects, summer practice and his coaching staff.

Madigan, returning to the Middle West where he grew up—he's a native of Ottawa, Ill., hesitated to predict that he might turn out a grid machine comparable to any of the powerhouses that made him famous in 19 years of coaching at St. Mary's college in California.

"From what 'Dad' tells me, we're not going to have much material to draw from," he said, but made it plain he was happy to be back in football business. "It appears a grand opportunity to participate in the training of young fellows for what they may have to face in the future."

Middlewestern football will be a new wrinkle to Madigan. In the years that he traveled the breadth of the country with the St. Mary's Gaels, his team played only one eleven from this section—Marquette university—and that was some years ago.

Schroeder told Slip he could expect about 25 players, many of them freshmen, out for the summer drills.

Brewers Climb To Association Lead

(By Associated Press)

As if firmly convinced of the truth in the old baseball observation that "the team on top July 4 is the best bet to win the pennant," the Milwaukee Brewers crashed into the American Association lead yesterday, with Indianapolis giving it up for the first time in two months.

* * *

The Brewers took advantage of a terrific Indianapolis slump last week to make the big advance. Including a double loss to Louisville yesterday, the Indians have won only three of their last 12 starts, while Milwaukee, after splitting with Kansas City, has captured six of its last 10.

The Colonels trounced the Tribe 4 to 3 and 3 to 1.

After shellacking Kansas City 12 to 4, Milwaukee dropped the second game, 4 to 1, as Russ Messerly and Don Hendrickson allowed only one hit apiece in sharing the Blues' pitching assignment and George Scharein gave them a working margin with a two-run homer in the first inning.

At Minneapolis, St. Paul launched a 15-hit barrage which smothered the Millers 10 to 3.

LOAN COST REDUCED
ON ALL LOANS ABOVE $150
— EFFECTIVE AT ONCE —

This new loan rate offers worthwhile savings to those whose budgets have been upset by the June income tax installment Now is the ideal time to clear up all those scattered bills that have troubled you. With only one place to pay, you can organize your way out of debt on an orderly repayment schedule adjusted to fit your purse Of course, we make small loans too For instance, $20 for 30 days costs only 60c. But if you need as much as $200 $300 or even $450 or more, remember Interstate's new rate offers you a real reduction on your loan cost. "While you wait" service to those who phone ahead or present proper identification and evidence of employment.

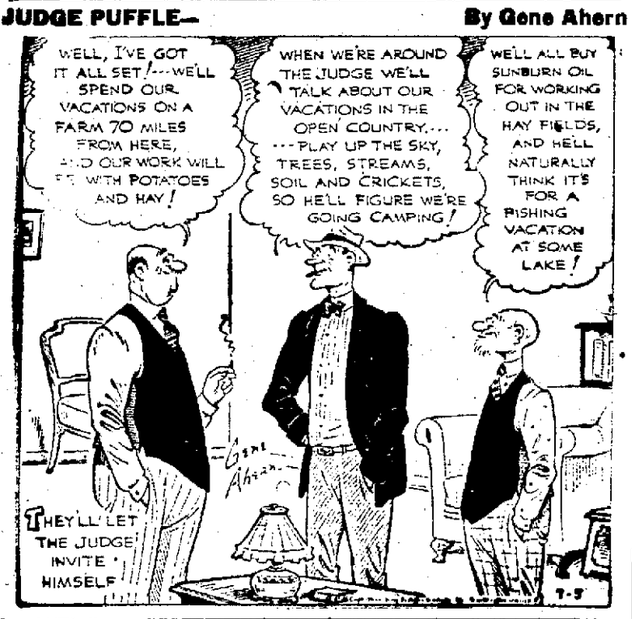
JUDGE PUFFLE— By Gene Ahern



WELL, I'VE GOT IT ALL SET!---WE'LL SPEND OUR VACATIONS ON A FARM 70 MILES FROM HERE, AND OUR WORK WILL BE WITH POTATOES AND HAY!
WHEN WE'RE AROUND THE JUDGE WE'LL TALK ABOUT OUR VACATIONS IN THE OPEN COUNTRY,... ---PLAY UP THE SKY, TREES, STREAMS, SOIL AND CRICKETS, SO HE'LL FIGURE WE'RE GOING CAMPING!
WE'LL ALL BUY SUNBURN OIL FOR WORKING OUT IN THE HAY FIELDS, AND HE'LL NATURALLY THINK IT'S FOR A FISHING VACATION AT SOME LAKE!
THEY'LL LET THE JUDGE INVITE HIMSELF

GALION BLAZE LOSS $100,000

FBI Starts Inquiry In Fire at Body Company Engaged In War Production.

be maintained while the destroyed wing was being rebuilt. The plant is to resume operations tomorrow. It was not operating at the time of the fire.

One man, Eugene Finical, 26, of Grove avenue, was injured in the blaze. He suffered a fractured bone in his left foot when he tripped in the machine shop after closing a fire door in the main plant. The fire, however, did not reach that far.

The fire was first discovered when the night watchman, George Valentine, and F. A. Kamerline, a guard, almost simultaneously saw smoke. It was only a few minutes later that it seemed that the whole addition was in flames. The factory fire alarm system was shorted, and the fire department had to be summoned by telephone.

William Grogg, a resident in the vicinity, said he happened to see a flicker of light in the structure and almost instantly the whole building seemed to be in flames.

Piles of painted lumber and paint drums were believed to have attributed to the rapid spread of the fire.

The town's regular firemen, "minute men" and volunteers, about 15 fire-fighters in all, worked from the time they answered the call shortly after 1:30 a. m., until 11:45 a. m. Sunday.

The plant won the Army-Navy "E" award in February for excellence in the production of steel trucks and other materials used in the war program. At that time there were about 300 employes at the factory. Recently the factory also won the minute-man flag.

In Dec. 1936, the company's plant which was located on Harding Way East, in the down-town business section, was destroyed by an early morning blaze causing loss of at least $500,000.

A month ago, on June 3, a $50,000 fire halted production at the plant of the American Steel Abrasive company. Buildings and equipment were badly damaged.

THEATERS

About S. O. S.

An old reliable has just exploded. "S. O. S." does not stand for "Save Our Ship" or "Save Our Souls." Actually it is just a series of dots and dashes which are easy to make and send in an emergency. Lieut. Felix Reisenberg, jr., technical advisor during the production of Warner Brothers' saga of the Merchant Marine, "Action In the North Atlantic," now at the Ohio, is the authority for this. "Action In the North Atlantic" stars Humphrey Bogart and Raymond Massey.

Insulted Hitler.

Two actors who insulted Hitler and lived to get out of Germany are seen in the Madison's top attraction, "Background to Danger." They're Hungarian-born Peter Lorre and Russian-born Kurt Katch. Both were noted actors in Germany when Hitler was beginning his drive to power. Lorre won international fame and was called to Hollywood. Later the Nazis tried to persuade him to return to Berlin and German pictures. Lorre, the screen killer, said, "There isn't room for two such murderers as Hitler and myself." Katch was a top ranking actor during the rise of Hitler, Hess and other henchmen, and was continuously ridiculing the Nazis. Other Madison attraction is "Gildersleeve's Bad Day."

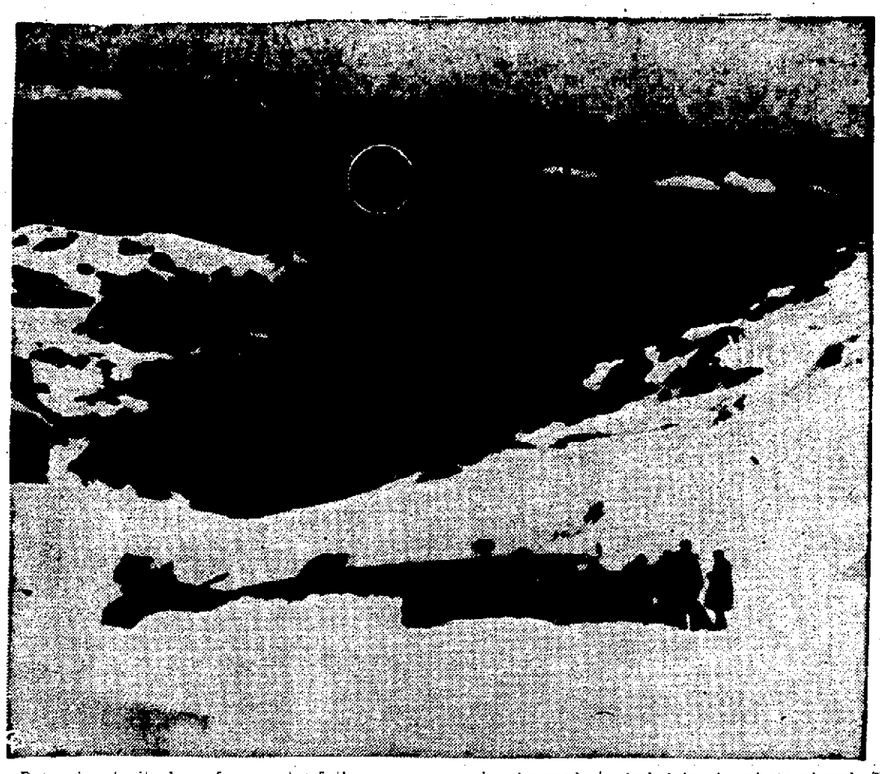
Air Force.

"Air Force," Warner Brothers' aviation film which was produced with the co-operation of the United States Air Corps, is now playing at the Ritz. The picture records the log of the "Mary Ann," a Boeing Flying Fortress, from the time it leaves Mather Field, San Francisco, December 6, 1941, for Honolulu. It traces the feats of "Mary Ann" over Pearl Harbor, Wake Island and the battle of the Coral Sea. John Garfield, Gig Young, Harry Carey and George Tobias are featured in the cast. Other Ritz attraction is "Henry Aldrich Gets Glamour."

Rescue U. S. Bomber Crew On Greenland Coast



Returning to its base from a patrol mission a U. S. B-25 bomber crash-landed on a snow-covered reef on the Greenland coast but all six members of the crew escaped unharmed. By radio the crew members contacted the base and after four days they were sighted by a plane and finally rescued by a Coast Guard vessel (shown circled in the photo above). In crash-landing on the coast, the bomber pilot had to dodge icebergs and just missed a mountain. U. S. Army Air Forces photo.

of heavy coastal artillery duels across the strait of Dover, usually an indication a German coastal convoy is attempting to sneak up the channel.

It was the third exchange in a week, after a long lull. The British guns opened up with a 15-minute barrage, and the Germans fired back at irregular intervals, some of their shells falling in the Dover area.

The Eighth air force lost eight bombers on the Sunday missions, which involved a round trip of more than 600 miles to La Pallice, and more than 200 miles round trip to Le Mans. Bombing results were good, a communique said, although heavy fighter opposition was met at Le Mans and Nantes, it was said. A number of enemy fighters were destroyed, the communique declared.

One American bombardier, Lieut. Harvey H. Wallace, of Carthage, Miss., said that the engine factory at Le Mans "just isn't there any more. They can cross that factory off the list."

Returned fliers said the weather was so clear the factory, two miles from Le Mans, "stood out like a beacon."

Sgt. Tim Touchin, who is said to be the only full-blooded Navajo Indian in the European theater, viewed Le Mans from the tail gunner's position as his Fortress turned away for home. "I looked back but couldn't see a darned thing of the target except smoke, fire and explosions," he said.

Returning fliers set off flares at their home base to signalize the success of the Fourth of July missions.

RAF fighters and bombers also swept over the continent during the day, hitting at railway yards at Amiens and knocking down enemy planes, with a loss of four of their own.

Britain itself began its second week of respite from German air raids.

Allies Scourge Ports Of Sardinia, Sicily

BULLETIN

CAIRO—(AP)—Royal Air Force bombers of the Middle East command struck at railway yards at Catania, east Sicily port, Saturday night, a Middle East communique announced today, dropping bombs north of the harbor.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—(AP)—Allied bomber and fighter planes closed out last week's scourging of Axis invasion barriers with the heaviest attacks on Sardinian and Sicilian ports and airdromes since Pantelleria surrendered.

Three raids were carried out in daylight Saturday against Comiso and adjacent airfield at Biscari in southern Sicily, Sciacca in southwestern Sicily, and Milo, the airfield adjoining Trapani, where aerial reconnaissance photographs revealed the Italains were blowing up harbor installations. Trapani, northwest Sicilian port, is only 100 miles from Cap Don peninsula in Tunisia.

Heavy damage was done to buildings and to parked aircraft in the attacks, it was said.

In Sardinia, bombers and fighters pounded at Alghero airport in the northwest; at Chilivani, in the north-central portion; Milis, in the west-central area, and Capoterra, in the central region.

Artillery Smashes Nazi Preparations

LONDON—(AP)—Preparations for a German attack in the Belgorod area northeast of Kharkov have been smashed by artillery and mortar fire with heavy loss to the Nazi forces, the Russian midday communique broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet Monitor announced today.

The war bulletin reported only minor action had taken place in other sections of the front. "Several dozen" Nazi troops were killed in a night raid on trenches in the central front and a reconnaissance detachment was dispersed by machinegun fire, the communique said.

North of Chuguev, 22 miles southeast of Kharkov, Soviet artillery smashed two self-propelled German guns which had been shelling Red army positions, the bulletin stated.

An attempt by a strong German punitive force to encircle a guerrilla unit in the Leningrad area was smashed after several days of fighting, the communique added.

Bitten On Leg—Clarence J. Gerhart, 256 East Second street, reported to police last night that a dog bit him on the right leg as he was walking on East Second street. Owner of the dog was ordered by police to tie the animal for 10 days.

Picture Program—At Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary club, to be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, the motion picture, "The Nazi Speaks," will be presented by H. H. Frank, inspector of the area air corps. Fred Frankeberger is to be program chairman.

Treated At Hospital—Harley William Voshel, Shelby, was treated at General hospital Sunday night for minor injuries he received in an altercation with Norman Brown, Mansfield, at Sixth and Main streets about 8 p. m. Police found Voshel on the sidewalk and called an ambulance. He was released after receiving treatment.

Clothing Destroyed—A Mansfield man was held at the city jail today for investigation after Miss Reva Painter, 22½ South Main street, told police some one broke into her apartment yesterday, slashed all her clothing with a knife and ransacked her room. She said entrance to the room was gained by tearing the screen from a window.

Seek Runaways—Mansfield police were asked Sunday night to help locate Edna Dunlap, 17, and Unis Brown, 18, reported absent without leave from the girls' war training center at Charles Mill lake. Officers found that the pair had stayed at a Mansfield hotel Friday and Saturday nights. The younger girl was reported on parole from the Girls' Industrial school at Delaware.

where the Pleasant Hill Boat club staged boat races and a war bond sales campaign.

A feature of the program was a concert by the Local 711 band. There were boating and swimming events for men, women and children. Motorboat rides were given war bond purchasers.

Firecrackers were things of memory in Ohio over the three-day holiday period, the powder necessary for the traditional noise-makers having been converted into war channels to provide unpleasant fireworks for the nation's enemies.

What pyrothecnical displays were available were restricted by state law.

With most persons heeding stay-at-home pleas of government officials, the firecracker absence afforded a splendid opportunity to sleep late and rest. It made little difference, however, to the multitude of Buckeye war workers who manned machines as usual, turning out supplies for the current fight to maintain the independence customarily feted on July 4.

Like in Mansfield, most of the state's war-busy communities waived special observances in view of the work-as-usual program, but a few carried on traditional ceremonies.

The most spectacular mass celebration in the state—Cleveland's annual festival of freedom—is scheduled in the municipal stadium there tonight. Some 3,000 army officers and men from Camp Perry and the 729th military police battalion will participate in the program which was scheduled for last night but postponed because of weather.

Fireworks displays were planned at two traditional celebrations in Columbus—at the Buckeye Republican club's rally at Franklin park and the all-day observance at suburban Upper Arlington. Gov. John W. Bricker will address the Upper Arlington festival tonight.

Americans around the world celebrated the 167th anniversary of their nation's independence yesterday enthusiastically assisted by their Allies.

In Moscow's Philharmonic hall, London's Hyde park, at Allied headquarters in North Africa, and in the capitals of Latin-America Americans and their friends gathered to celebrate the day which has become a symbol in the present-day battle for the four freedoms.

British and French officers and men joined the celebration at Allied headquarters in North Africa at which General Dwight D. Eisenhower was the principal speaker. The British royal navy under Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham punctuated the ceremonies by firing a 48-gun salute which sent startled natives scurrying to windows to see if an air raid was in progress.

In London 25 American enlisted men were hosts to a like number of British girls on an old-fashioned hayride—in Hyde park—the first ever seen in England.

Admiral William H. Standley, United States Ambassador to Russia, held open house at the American embassy in Moscow and guests drank a concoction which they called "Cuba Libransky," a Cuba Libra with Vodka substituted for rum.

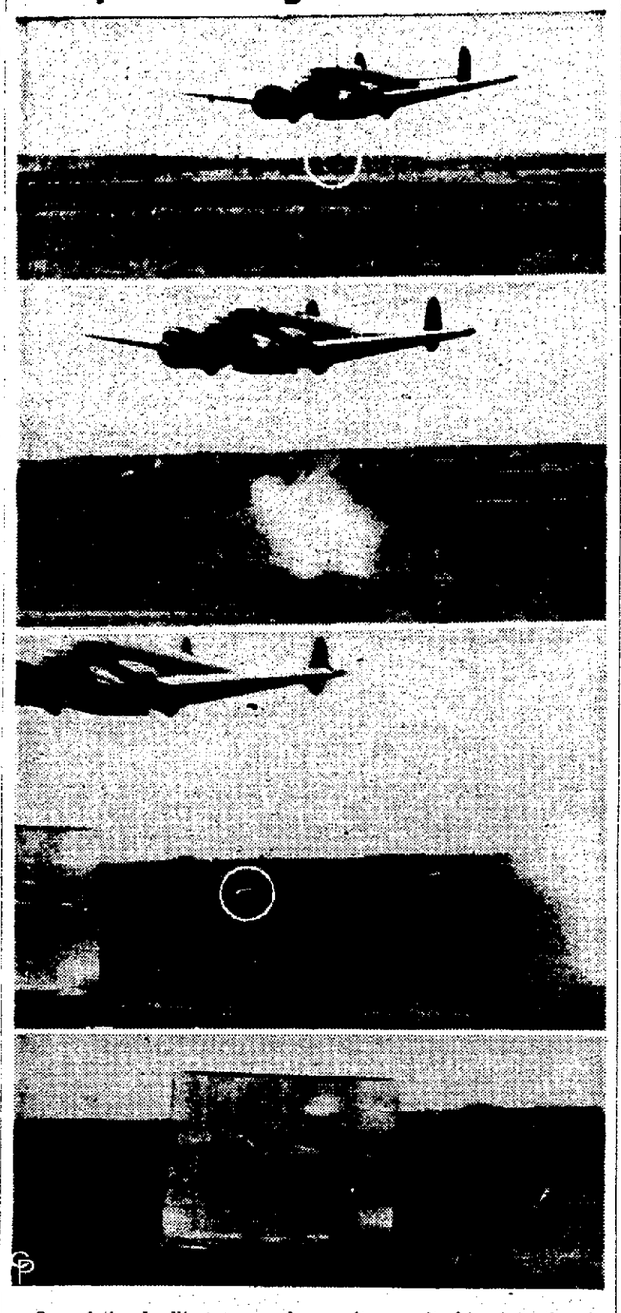
French Patriots Blow Up Barracks, Moscow Says.

London—(AP)—A Moscow broadcast recorded by the Soviet Monitor said today that French patriots at Marseille recently blew up German military barracks, killing and injuring at least 80 Nazis.

The report, given out by the Soviet information bureau, said that in other patriot attacks, a group halted a column of German trucks near Toulouse, killing 20 Nazis and destroying 11 vehicles.

Skip-Bombing Demonstration



One of the deadliest types of air attack developed recently by U. S. Army fliers is skip-bombing. These photos, taken at Lake Childress, Tex., during a demonstration, show its effectiveness. The bomb is dropped from the plane (top) low over the water. In the second photo it hits the water with a splash. Continuing on its way it skips into the air like a flat stone hurled across a pond. The bomb tears right through the target screen (bottom). In real battle it would explode against the target. The method can be used on land, also.

the American air line of communication between Guadalcanal and Rendova; and made a successful landing at Nassu bay on the northeast coast of New Guinea below Salamaua.

The noon communique said the ground situation at Nassau bay was quiet. Fifty enemy dead have been counted in the area but the headquarters announcement said these represented "only a fraction of the total Japanese casualties." Many others are believed lying dead in nearby jungle sectors which are still commanded by enemy guns.

Farther north, where Allied forces are pressing toward the enemy base of Salamaua, patrol clashes continued. Ten Japanese out of a 20-man patrol were killed Sunday and several others were wounded.

A four-engined reconnaissance plane scored three direct hits with 500-pound bombs on a 1500-ton Japanese ship off New Guinea and left the craft burning and sinking.

Aerial activity in the northeastern sector was limited to reconnaissance.

Tojo In Singapore To Study 'Conditions'

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Japanese radio announced that Premier Hideki Tojo arrived in Singapore today to confer with Field Marshal Count Hisaichi Terauchi, supreme commander of Japanese forces in the southern area "and to inspect personally actual conditions in the south."

The broadcast, from a Domei news agency dispatch, was an English-language transmission reported to the Office of War Information. Domei also said another motive of Tojo's visit was to "prepare the new policy for the southern regions."

The OWI, declaring the broadcast did not specify the actual conditions Tojo planned to inspect, pointed out that Terauchi's command presumably includes the New Guinea-Solomons area where a strong new Allied offensive is under way.

The Zero held its course, for a while—then suddenly Japanese pilot broke away, twisting his plane out of the P-40's path and darting for safety.

Once more Bade headed homeward, but 2,000 feet higher up, two more American dive bombers streaked across the sky with five Zero's hammering at their tails.

Roaring in from the rear, Bade pulled up beneath one Zero and tried to cut away its rudder with his propellor.

That Zero scurried off and then there were four.

Bade kept after them until there were none. All fled.

The dive bombers returned home safely. So did the young man from Elk River, wondering if the navy men thought he couldn't shoot.

Anyway his head wound wasn't serious.

Africa 'Cursed' With Wasteful Farm Methods

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Africans could well take a lesson from American farmers on how to make the best of their agricultural resources, according to Dr. George W. Carpenter of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., a missionary of the American Baptist Foreign Mission society who spent several years in the Belgian Congo.

Speaker on a radio farm forum here recently, Dr. Carpenter declared that one of the curses of Africa is the "burdensome, wasteful and destructive methods of agriculture which prevail."

This condition of agriculture, he added, is reflected in the state of the people, for Africa, with an area greater than that of the United States, Europe, China and India together, supports only 140 million people, and many of them are chronically undernourished.

"One of the major problems of the continent is, therefore, the improvement of agricultural methods and, like most other problems, this is basically a question of mass education of the people," he said.

FIVE KILLED

Five More Injured In Head-On Crash of Two Automobiles.

MARIONVILLE, Pa. — (U.P.) — Eight persons were killed yesterday and five others were injured when two automobiles, one from New York and the other from Akron, O., crashed head-on and burned on Route 68, three miles south of here today.

Seven of the dead were in the New York state car and at a late hour yesterday they had not been identified. Pennsylvania state police from the Clarion (Pa.) depot said the bodies were burned beyond recognition and that New York state authorities had been asked to trace them through the license plate on the car.

Admiral Tells How Yanks Took Japs By Surprise During New Georgia Landings.

island. The nearest Rendova shore is a little more than five miles from Japan's bomb-battered Munda Point airfield.

The delivery of the troops in Higgins landing boats to the narrow beach a little more than a quarter mile wide, proceeded smoothly. There was no enemy air opposition for more than seven hours.

Lieut. (jg) Frank W. Rounds, Norwell, Mass., attached to the admiral's staff, watched the first wave of troops hitting the beach. He said rifle fire was popping all around when he waded waist deep in water to the shore. Most of the shooting apparently was from our landing units, however, because Japanese shore resistance was wiped out quickly.

Bill Shrout, Life magizine photographer with the army ground troops, told Rounds that soon after landing he saw bodies of about 30 Japanese soldiers some 100 yards from the beach in a thick palm growth.

It was not until nearly 4 p. m. that the enemy broke through the protecting umbrella of U. S. fighter planes to hit the transport convoy which then was well under way homeward down the Blanche channel.

An estimated 25 torpedo planes swooped out of the clouds down the steep slope of Rendova mountain and started a gliding rush from all directions on the transports, which were screened by escorting destroyers.

At least 12 torpedo planes were sent in flames into the water by murderous anti-aircraft fire from all the ships, but one torpedo hit the engine room of the McCawley. The transport was said to have safely dodged the first torpedo off the bow.

This ship was the only one in the convoy hit. All the others returned to base undamaged.

Soon after the torpedo hit the ship the admiral and most of his staff transferred to a destroyer. A cargo vessel attempted to take the torpedoed transport in tow.

At about 8 p. m. the admiral ordered all non-essential personnel to be taken off the destroyer. Twenty-three minutes later the already sinking transport, a former passenger liner, was hit by two submarine torpedoes.

"We had two perfectly good ships trying to tow her, but we couldn't have saved her," the admiral said. "They put two torpedoes into a sunken ship!"

Commenting on the new South Pacific offensive at his first press conference after returning to the headquarters base, the admiral said:

"I don't look on New Georgia as an example of island-by-island war. New Georgia is quite an important place. If we are going to win the war a forward movement is essential. You can't go forward fast. You have to go step by step.

"You can talk until you are black in the face about a strike on Tokyo. Well, maybe Tokyo is able to do something about that. It will take planning, the assembly of forces and inch-by-inch advance until eventually the whole war will collapse."

The admiral observed that the New Georgia invasion "wasn't any tougher than I expected." "In fact," he added, "It wasn't as tough as I had told some other people I expected."

Bares New Supply Route To China

CHUNGKING —(AP)— Chinese minister of communications Tseng Yang-Fu announced today that arrangements have been concluded for a new supply route to China via Iran and the Turkestan-Siberian railway and expressed hope that shipments "will commence in the nearest future."

The announcement came just two days before the sixth anniversary of the start of the war with Japan and found China struggling to increase shipments of vital war materials from Allied nations.

At the present time, Tseng pointed out, about 10,500 of the 12,500 miles of railways in China are in the hands of the Japanese.

The heaviest blow to China in the struggle to maintain international communications was the loss of Burma, but two supply routes have been available—one from India by air and the other from India by land via Iran and Russia.

lage, state highway patrolmen said.

While officers were not called to investigate the mishap until yesterday, they said the youth apparently rode his bicycle into the front of a car driven by William Lee Logan, 58, Lexington, R. D. 2. Logan was driving east on Route 97 and the boy was traveling north on temporary Route 545.

Funeral services for the youthful victim are in charge of the Craven Funeral home at Mt. Gilead.

While traffic in the Mansfield area was reported lighter than during holiday week-ends last summer, state patrolmen and the sheriff's deputies made eight arrests for traffic violations, one following a minor accident Saturday night.

Sherman Craft, 563 Bowman street, was taken into custody by deputy sheriffs Saturday night after his car collided with one driven by Ivan Milligan, 552 McPherson street, on Bowman road north of the city. Craft is being held at the county jail for investigation.

Cited by state highway patrolmen for speeding on U. S. Route 42 were six motorists, all of whom posted $16.30 bond and waived hearings in court. The drivers who were stopped by patrolmen were Robert Layton Ometer of Galion; Bernard C. Reed, Piqua; Wilford H. VonGunten, Akron; Thomas R. Meredith, Mansfield; Jack C. Alexander, Ashland, R. D. 1 and Earl W. Skiver, Willoughby.

Arrested Saturday night on Route 42 for driving without a tail light on his car was Cletus D. Harrod, Piqua, who posted $11.30 bond and was released.

growing independence on the part of the lawmakers.

"There's a new spirit in congress," the Indiana senator told reporters. "The legislative branch is reasserting its rights as a co-ordinate unit of the government. That change is not due entirely to the increase in the number of Republicans, but can be attributed to a growing disposition on the part of Democrats to assert their independence of the White House."

Van Nuys said he thought this tendency would be increased by the visit of the legislators to their homes, but Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) predicted that the people will demand that legislators who have been opposing the president's domestic policies come forward with alternate solutions for home front problems.

"I think most of this fuss over domestic matters has arisen from the irritation of men who are fatigued by years on the job without rest," Pepper declared. "I think a rest will do congress good and it may bring some of the members back with their ideas clarified. We have been too much out of contact with the people."

Pepper said he blamed not only the Republicans, who he said are "conducting their 1944 campaign right now," but men in the Democratic party "who ought to be honest enough to admit they are against Roosevelt and trying to impede his leadership."

On the other hand, Senator Ball (R., Minn.) said he thought there is a "basic disagreement" between congress and the president on domestic issues, as illustrated by the battle over subsidies, and he only hoped that it did not extend to the field of foreign policy.

One Dispute Blocks Vote For 4 Billions

WASHINGTON — (AP) — One stumbling block remained today in the path of final passage of the $2,900,000,000 war agencies bill and a $1,136,000,000 labor-federal security measure as congress strove to clear its appropriations calendar in time to recess Wednesday for the summer.

It was a dispute over senate insistence on the right to pass on all employes of 19 war-created agencies receiving salaries of $4,800 or more annually.

The house overwhelmingly rejected an amendment to the labor-security bill Friday to require senate confirmation of war manpower commission employes in the uppery salary brackets.

On a role call vote Saturday it rejected a similar proposal for employes of the War Production board, the Offices of Price Administration and War Information and the 15 other agencies whose funds are included in the war agencies measure.

Meanwhile, the senate made ready to send the $850,000,000 farm appropriations bill to the White House. Only acceptance of a motion by Senator Russell (D-Ga.) to yield to house demands for abandonment of federal insurance on wheat and cotton crops remained to be voted.

Senate O. K. Seen For Subsidy Compromise

WASHINGTON— (AP) —A compromise plan under which the administration would continue its food price roll-back program for the next six months, but with a $525,000,000 limit on all subsidies, came before the senate today with leaders of both major parties forecasting approval.

The plan, admittedly a stopgap to bridge the summer recess which congressmen hope to begin this week, was approved by a seven to four vote of the senate banking committee Saturday night after a three hour session with War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown and Secretary of Commerce Jones.

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) of the banking committee said he believed the bill acceptable both to the administration and to a majority of the senate, although he looked for a renewal of the fight to bar any food subsidies which are not paid directly to producers.

Acting Republican Leader White (Maine) likewise looked for approval of the compromise bill, which on the insistence of Ohio's Senator Taft and other Republicans set the $525,000,000 limit on the amount of subsidy commitments which can be made between now and Jan. 1.

CHAPTER XVI

"M'mph" said Elder. "Guess that fellow's steering gear must've jammed."

"The Commander Ship is making our number, sir," said Parker. "Number Fifty-eight . . ." he read the blinker flashes, "Number Fifty-eight . . . You . . . are . . . out . . . of . . . position . . . regain . . . immediately."

"Hunh? What's that? Why, the blethering old goat!" Elder stormed. "Is it my fault I'm out of line? What the hell does he mean, bawling me out before the whole convoy? I've got a mind to signal him to go take a good, brisk run for himself! Yunh!—A run around right end!"

The pilot grinned. "They say old Hartridge is a proper tough bloke! A chap was telling me about one time when . . . Oh! Here comes my boat alongside." He extended his hand. "Well, Captain, I wish you good luck, fair weather and a safe return!"

When the convoy was finally in formation, its main body made a rectangle whose area covered nearly four square miles. "Course sixty-two degrees. Speed nine knots. Proceed." Parker read the flashes from the Cortez. The seventy-three vessels moved ahead as one. The great fleet looked like a city which in some miraculous fashion had broken loose from terra firma and gone adventuring on the sea.

* * *

"Jeeze, some sight!" said Stahislawski. He and his companions were sprawled in the sun on the tarpaulin cover of Number Four hatch. On the well-deck all around them were wingless Lockheed bombers.

"Some sight is right! Say—how much dough would you guess all these ships and cargoes is worth?"

"How much? Hell, there ain't that much!"

"No, you wouldn't think so, would you? And yet, all this we're looking at ain't a drop in the bucket, compared to what the whole war's costing."

"Yair—and what's the sense of it?" said a salor. "That's what I wanta know!"

"That's what everybody wants to know, except Hitler. The only thing he don't know is that he's crazy!"

"Yair, sure! But what I wanta know is, what's it all about?—I mean, as far as ordinary guys like us is concerned?"

"Hell!" said Larson, gruffly, shoving a charge of Copenhagen snuff into his cheek, "You want to know vat it's all about, do you? Well, I guess you vass neffer in the Axis ports and seen how them poor people liff! I guess you do not know about Norway, where the people—my people—are slaves! But you dope—didn't you neffer hear about the Four Freedoms?"

"Four Freedoms? You mean them four, now, pernts that President Roosevelt made that speech about? Well, yair, I heard him on the radio, but I guess I've—I've kinda forgot exactly what they was."

"Den you should be ashamedt of yourself! But neffer mind, neffer mind! . . . Vait! I will make it all clear to you!"

Larson rose to his feet. His eyes were bright and his nostrils dilated. Obviously, he was moved by a deep, a religious, an all consuming fervor . . .

"Stand up, you!"

With a wink to the crowd, the other obeyed and stood there, grinning.

"Vell, how do you feel?"

"Feel? Me? Oh, I feel swell! But shucks, Larson—I thought you was going to . . ."

Suddenly the carpenter's horny hands shot out and gripped him by the throat. Gripped it, squeezed it, clamped upon it, until the membranous walls of the windpipe met and stuck together. The fellow emitted a single hoarse gurgle and then struggled futilely, his eyes and tongue protruding.

The muscles of Larson's forearms stood out like grape vines as he clamped harder and harder. He chuckled through his scraggly mustache. "Vell! Now . . . now . . . now you are liffing in an Axis country! It's a great life . . . ain't it? Oh, it's liffly! Poy, oh poy, oh poy—how you are enjoying yourself! You got a strong man, a dictator, a Fuehrer, a Duce, and he is in charge of everyt-ing! He tells you vat to think! He tells you vat to do! He giffs you vateffer you need—except for one thing! . . . Vell, vat is that one thing?" Suddenly Larson relaxed his grip, stepped back a pace and stood with hands dramatically upraised. "Ah! Ah-h-h! Now you can breathe! Now, you are free! Now, you are in a democracy! Now, you can fill your lungs vit the good air that God made for us all! Vell! . . ." He turned and spread his arms toward the Stars and Stripes which fluttered at the stern. "Well! You asked vat we are fighting for! Now, I—I guess you know, maybe!"

Like the rest of them, Jeff Caldwell, the negro pantryman, was deeply impressed by this practical demonstration of the comparative values of life under totalitarianism and democracy. But still, something seemed to be troubling him. He sat down beside Stanislawski and addressed him confidentially.

"The only thing Ah can't figure out is where us colored folks is going to get anything from this war. Tell me, Stan—what chance has a boy like me got, in a democracy or any place?"

"What chance have you got? In America? Why hell, Jeff—what chance did Joe Louis have? Only enough to make eighty-three million bucks for himself, cash money!"

"M'm, yes . . . but Ah ain't got a left like Joe Louis!"

"Awright, awright, and so what? How about Rochester? There's a colored boy he ain't even as strong as you are, but he pulls down ten thousand smackers a week for talkin' five minutes over the radio and five hundred grand every time he acts in a picture!"

"Fahve hunnerd grand? Unh-unh! Oh, boy! Ain't dat sumpin'!"

"You're dam tootin' it's somethin'! But say, lissen, Jeff! Get this! Now, here's exackly what you and I are gonta do! As soon as we win this war, see, we'll go out to Hollywood and crash the movies. The way I figure it, what's this guy Victor Mature got that I haven't got?—Yair—and what's this colored guy Rochester got that you haven't go?"

"Um, well—he's got fahve hunnerd grand!"

"Sure! Sure! But how'd he get it? Why, he got it simply by sayin', 'Hello, Mistah Benny—this is Rochester,' that's how he got it Jeff, you just come along to Hollywood with me and you'n I'll show them guys some talent! How about it, kid?"

"—Say! You don't really mean it, Stan?"

"Sure, I really mean it! I'll start coachin' you right now, so's you'll be all set to knock 'em stiff as soon as we get there! C'mon, now—let's hear you say 'Hello, Mistah Benny—this is Rochester!"

"Aw, shucks!" Jeff simpered in embarrassment and twisted at a button of his white jacket. "Ah—Ah—Ah . . . Aw, shucks!"

"Oh, come on, now—don't be nervous! There ain't nobody gonta bite you!"

"Well (tish hish!) —er, er—Hello, Mistah Benny—this is Rochester!"

"At-a-boy! Say, that's swell!—The only thing, Jeff, you want to make it a little hoarser, like you'd swallered a handful of gravel or something. Now, just gimme it again . . ."

"Er—Hello, Mistah Benny—this is Rochester! How's that hunh?"

"Too fast! Just a little too fast! But just you keep on rehearsing, Jeff—it's come to you all of a sudden. Yes, sir! By the time this war's over, I guarantee you'll be saying it poifect!"

* * *

With the light of a new-found ambition kindled in his eye, Jefferson Caldwell moved happily toward the pantry fepeating his lines and trying to sound as though he had swallowed a handful of gravel.

Late that night, Captain Elder was in his cabin once more studying his convoy orders. Mr. Rossi stuck his head in at the door.

"Oh, hello there, Joe! Come on in and we'll go over this stuff together. But first, just yell down to Jeff to shoot us up some sandwiches and beer, will you?"

"Okay," said Mr. Rossi "But why don't you use that phone, right there at your elbow?"

"Phone? Oh, sure! Gosh, Joe, it's funny, but I can't seem to get used to all the modern trimmings on this ship! As a matter of fact, I sometimes think it's all a little screwy. H'm, let's see, now . . . Seven . . . that's the pantry number. Hello!"

"Hello, Mistah Benny—this is Rochester!" came a hoarse but sleepy voice.

"Hunh? Rochester? I don't want Rochester and I don't want Syracuse! I want the pantry and . . . Unh! Oh! Say what the hell's the matter with you, Jeff—been hitting that lemon extract again? Bring up four hams-on-rye and two bottles of beer, and make it snappy!"

THE "MINUTE MAN" FLAG—AWARDED TO FIRMS WHERE 10% OR MORE OF GROSS PAYROLL IS INVESTED BY EMPLOYEES EVERY PAYDAY IN U. S. WAR BONDS

The Minute Man has come to life again—he lives once more in each employee who works under this flag. We've raised our flag proudly. No—not because we want to pat ourselves on the back—it doesn't take any Einstein to figure out the safest, soundest investment in the world. We're proud of our flag because we know . . . That our War Bond dollars are buying the bombs that fall over Berlin — the bullets that stop Jap planes — the guns, tanks and ships that will bring victory.

That we're backing up the ten million boys who are in the fight. And that includes our sons, brothers, husbands, and 170 of our 900 fellow workers. That we may have to forego a few luxuries — but if our money helps end this war one day, one hour, or even one minute sooner — then no sacrifice will have been too great.

That the purchase of War Bonds is not a duty, but a privilege — a privilege given us 167 years ago, by men who didn't ask themselves what percentage of their income they should invest in the liberty they sought.

That as long as the Minute Man flag flies — Old Glory will continue to wave.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

We're All Rich, Ickes Tells Us

CHEERFUL, indeed, is the news just released by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes that America's physical assets run neatly above twelve TRILLION dollars, instead of the paltry three hundred BILLION dollars which previous calculations had indicated.

That, confides optimistic Harold, would pro rate the equivalent of $89,000 to each man, woman and child in the country.

"That is my answer," writes Mr. Ickes in an article in the current issue of the American magazine, "to the 'poor mouths' who are complaining that the war is going to bust us and that we shall leave our children penniless, with nothing but an overdraft that cannot be honored, and a headache to show for the long and one-sided battle with the wolf that has been going on ever since the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers."

It is the untapped resources, such as coal, iron ore and other minerals, petroleum, natural gas, etc., that represent more than eleven trillion dollars, according to the Ickes calculation, and he earnestly proclaims that his figures are not speculative but more inclined to be conservative, as they include no allowance for extra values gained by processing and refining raw materials.

The vast stock of gold buried in Kentucky is not taken into account by Mr. Ickes, who says it has "little industrial value," but he gives much attention to the opinion of what he terms "one of the country's oil-cushioned engineers," who says "we really haven't started to use the petroleum that is in the ground."

"If, as the expert appears to believe, we have an eternal spring of crude oil under us," Mr. Ickes concludes, "then we will be rich beyond the wildest dreams of avarice. . . . We are every one a Croesus!"

All of which serves as a revealing exposition of New Deal philosophy and goes far to explain why mere millions of dollars are so lightly regarded in federal administrative circles.

City Women as Farm Workers

AS A CONSIDERABLE number of women take men's places on farms it will be interesting to see whether they do as well as their ancestors at this kind of hard work.

They have some advantages now, with all the farm machinery to help them, instead of doing nearly everything by hand. But it will take time and effort to learn the mechanical side of modern farming, not to mention the weather and a lot of other things that farm people designate as "horse sense."

Farming is really one of the most difficult occupations in the world and one that calls for an immense amount of highly specialized knowledge.

It's a fine thing for city and country to get acquainted in this fashion. It will give "city farmers" a higher respect for the farm population, and in some cases, no doubt, farmers will learn a few things from their city "hands."

The two groups really ought to know each other better, and thus get back to the basic Americanism with which this country started.

War Effort Must Remain Divided

SOME PEOPLE advocate concentrating the war effort against Japan, leaving Germany till later. If anyone might be expected to think like this, it is Joseph C. Grew, former American ambassador at Tokyo. He has been telling about the unsuspected strength of the Japanese, and trying to make this more generally known.

Yet "I am no lick-the-Japs firster," he declared at a recent press conference, "because it must be realized that we are fighting a global war and every front is part and parcel of the whole picture. Defeats of the enemy in Europe and Africa have their effect on the Asiatic fronts and vice versa."

The United States is now carrying the main brunt of the war against Japan. So Churchill declared in his last speech to congress. At the same time we are making valuable contributions to the war in Europe. It is in our own best interests to divide our efforts, and keep the war going on two fronts at once. To ease up on Hitler would be one of the most dangerous things this country could do.

Mexican Danger Revealed

ONE of the causes of the "zoot suit" riots in Los Angeles may be what is known as "Sinarquism." Organized six or seven years ago by a Nazi agent, it denounces Bolshevists, Americans, Freemasons, Protestants and Jews. It calls for the liquidation of the Mexican Revolution. It is an organization on military lines, with a special salute for its chief. Both Nazis and Fascists began in this manner.

Were it not for the war, Sinarquism might be an entirely Mexican affair. As a vehicle for Axis propaganda and warfare, it concerns this country. The Sinarquists are registered with the department of justice as alien agents; and well they may be. There are said to be 50,000 of them. Whatever the number, it is too large.

Plastic Shoe Soles Next

NOW it is synthetic shoe leather. A preparation of close-woven cotton impregnated with plastic has been, invented, which makes excellent soles. They are said to give more mileage than the leather soles to which people have become accustomed. They may be cemented or sewed to uppers.

If they are as good as represented, shoe rationing may not be necessary in the next war.

It is being gleefully heralded that, "In the one month of April the government saved $10,000,000 simply by not filling vacancies"—but think how much might be saved if there were more vacancies to be left unfilled.

Noah Webster defines "small potatoes" as "something or someone of trivial importance or worth"—which seems to be okay, except in the matter of potatoes.

ONE WAY TO COMPETE WITH A GIRAFFE

Installment Buying Curb May Stay

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WHEN a merchant sells something on the strength of a partial down-payment and a series of subsequent installments, naturally he wants his money regularly and in full on all the due-dates.

A lot of merchants, however, are strongly opposed to having the system abolished or materially modified. Plenty of life's conveniences or near-necessities cost so much, each, that the average individual cannot foot a lump-sum bill for any one of them. He must worry along unprovided for, which is tough on him and also deprives the merchant of a good customer, for huge numbers of these would-be buyers' credit is perfectly good, within limits concerning which salesmanship can easily inform itself.

Just now, though, the government opposes the installment-buying plan on the ground that it tends to encourage retail buying by millions of folk, thus stimulating inflation.

* * *

ACCORDINGLY, the administration evolved what is known as "Regulation W," an order requiring a heavy down-payment upon whatever a prospective investor seeks to put his money into on installment terms, as in past peace times, and correspondingly limiting the accommodation that the seller is entitled to extend to him.

As a war measure, apparently there is an inclination to make the best of the rule.

The difficulty is that there is a move to extend it on into peace time.

Rather curiously, it is advertised by the Retail Credit Institute of America as a concept of a small group of the country's corking big retail merchants.

The theory is that these retail whales aim at freezing out the peewee retailers, the scheme being to monopolize all installment trade in the big fellows' interest.

AS INTERPRETED by Executive Director William J. Cheyney of the Retail Credit Institute, in a talk before the organization during its recent convention in St. Louis, "the program deliberately leaves out of America's great markets the least fortunate of our people, economically speaking. It would make permanent the theory that those more financially affluent have first choice of all our nation's goods. It would assume the proportions of the MOST GIGANTIC MONOPOLY TO RESTRAIN TRADE in all United States history."

Director Cheyney's thesis is that installment buyers and a seller are co-contractors, and, as a seller, he says to the government (when it gets back to peace times), "Keep your hands off my right of contract."

Do not, urges Director Cheyney, tell our people, in the post-war era, how to USE our dollars, but how they can best employ them, and share in useful development of their utility. The idea is educational.

"We best serve the people," submits the retailers' executive, "if we seek their money."

Of course, the retailers want their share of it ultimately.

But who doesn't?

Spokesman Cheyney surmises that the same thing is desired in the same class in Nazi and Fascist Europe, and doubtless in Japan, and elsewhere. Probably, he thinks, that is what is the matter with them.

Making deals, submits Cheyney, is an issue between the two folk who make them. But he does not believe that they ought to be dictated by some supreme authority. Courts may weigh them later, but subject to constitutional limitations.

Zoot Suit Business

CHANCES are you've been reading, neighbor, about the zoot suit mess out on the west coast. As a West Coaster I admit with regret that it's true, but I do believe that we all should have a better understanding of this very real and widespread danger—and particularly of our own responsibility for it.

There's nothing new about zoot suit outlaws. We had them back in 1883 and 1843—and 1043 B. C. They are not a machine age phenomenon. They are simply the expression of the rage, envy, greed and loneliness which are the inevitable dregs of an ill conducted society. Zoot suiters are not peculiar to any race or any situation. They are the direct and ghastly product of our own maladjustment and injustice.

They are the weaklings who cannot keep up with the pace which the better fed and better bred easily maintain. They are not a sign of rebellious youth; they may be any age and of any birth but they all have one thing in common—

THEY HAVE A TERRIBLE AND DRIVING HUNGER FOR POWER.

This hunger for power is not in itself a wicked thing. It underlies all clean competition and honest pride and the zoot suiter is not to be condemned merely because he desires his little place in the sun.

PRIMARILY YOU AND I ARE TO BLAME FOR THE ZOOT SUITER.

We are to blame because we allow beings to breed like vermin in rotten hideouts, malnourished, uneducated, undisciplined—with no plan on our part for their future.

So now they have swamped us with their numbers in our hour of deepest distress and we are pretty sore about it. But we asked for what we are getting and we'll get more unless we put our house in order. I am no sissy about criminals. I have known a great many of them and I know what makes them click.

I have some of their ruthlessness in my own nature and much of their fear. However I am strong. I was given a good start in life. There were no frills but I had no need of a marihuana cigaret to give me the red blooded courage and pride which these poor weaklings crave. Yet, because of the mad dog in me, as in most of us, I do think I understand these warped souls.

It would be very easy to write a formula for repressing the zoot suiters, a formula which would be extremely popular and bring many complimentary fan letters. I need only advocate a public whipping post, long jail sentences, humiliation and repression of every kind. Whereupon everyone would rise and call me righteous.

But nothing could be more stupid or vicious or demoralizing to our well being than such measures. You can never stamp out the forces of evil by using greater evil.

We have permitted the conditions under which these weaklings were bred, we have held before their doped eyes every glistening challenge which the rich and the strong and the successful may flaunt before the poor and the weak. We can only curb them now by reforming ourselves and making here and now a new pattern for American life.

These violent boys and girls want power. They seek it in grotesque uniforms, in murderous and obscene actions. What is the answer? To shut them up like wild beasts?

NO. THE ANSWER IS TO GIVE THEM POWER, BUT THE RIGHT KIND OF POWER. IF THEY WANT UNIFORMS GIVE THEM UNIFORMS BUT MAKE THOSE UNIFORMS SYMBOLS OF REAL STRENGTH AND REAL SERVICE.

IF THEY WANT ORGANIZATION, GIVE THEM ORGANIZATION BUT GIVE IT THE SAME RESPECT AND FAITH WE ACCORD TO THE REST OF THE YOUTH OF AMERICA.

They need discipline. We all need discipline. But we cannot enforce discipline if it has followed 20 years of neglect and starvation and unfair discrimination. These people who wear fantastic costumes are not wild beasts. They are boys and girls, men and women like ourselves. Deep in their darkness there burns a desire for the stars.

GIVE THEM THE STARS. MAKE THEM LOOK FOR THEM—MAKE THEM SWEAT FOR THEM—MAKE THEM BLEED AND DIE FOR THEM IF NECESSARY, BUT STOP STANDING OFF AND HOLDING YOUR NOSE AT THE MESS YOU YOURSELVES HAVE CREATED.

Say to them that are fearful of heart, Be strong, fear not: behold your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompense; he will come and save you.—Isaiah 35:4.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Civilian Workers Staking Claims To Gold Along the Alcan Highway

WASHINGTON—American soldiers who spent dreary winters tracking through the Arctic forest to build the Alcan highway to Alaska frequently saw the sparkle of gold in the stream beds and wanted to stake out claims for peacetime development. They were not allowed to do so.

Now, however, civilian construction crews are coming along the same trail, and are staking out claims for the gold which U. S. soldiers could not touch.

Boys from almost every state were sent to Alaska on that pioneering job—cutting a road through tall timber where none but Indians had passed before. They worked from Dawson Creek, in Alberta, to Fairbanks, Alaska, but the place where they saw the gleaming gold was in the Yukon, near Whitehorse.

At first, there was little time to think about private projects for one battalion was racing against another to complete its 20-mile stretch of highway. But when a lull came in the work, the men asked permission to try their luck at panning gold. The officers, however, ruled this out.

Another season has rolled around, and things have changed. The pioneer road is being replaced by a permanent highway, built by big construction companies—Elliott Construction company, and Becketel, Price, and Callahan.

These companies have mining engineers attached to the construction gangs, and they are not bound by military discipline.

Note: Finally the army has modified its regulations to permit a little amateur gold panning by soldiers in Alaska, for recreational purposes. This activity will be in the same class with fishing, to give the soldiers sport in their spare time.

Diplomatic Nurse.

DIPLOMATS have the reputation of keeping late hours—at both ends of the night. But Cristina Michels, daughter of the Chilean ambassador, gets up at 6:30 a. m. four mornings a week, prepares her own breakfast, slips out of the big embassy residence at Sheridan Circle, and catches a bus to the other end of town.

At the Sibley hospital, she works as a nurse's aide. The sights and smells of a hospital are new to her, but she does what she is told. One day she was giving a massage to an old man whose neck muscles were sore. When she was finished, he looked up gratefully and said, "You can always tell an experienced nurse."

Home Front Soldiers.

WHILE the Office of Price Administration is being drawn and quartered in Washington, one very real tribute to the American system of government is the manner in which local OPA boards—more than 5,000 of them—are standing up valiantly to their job.

These boards were thrown together hastily in late December, 1941, to ration tires. They knew nothing about rationing. Nobody did. Formal rationing was something with which Americans had had no experience. Next came automobiles, typewriters, sugar, and then—along the Atlantic seaboard—gasoline, which is politically inflammable.

Never has there been an evenly distributed work load on these groups of inexperienced men and women, assigned the task of regulating their neighbors. At times a great blow-up has seemed inevitable because of the unpredictable peaks of work, because there was not enough money until recently to hire good help, because office equipment has been lacking, and because the boards have had to operate against the grain of human nature.

In a country accustomed to "Yes" for the answer, they have had to say "No." They stand athwart the path of the desire of the American people. It is their duty, given them by their government, to render this war service.

Many of the members resent government methods, but there is remarkable loyalty to the programs they administer. Generally, active board members develop from an attitude of casualness, toward zealousness. Their loyalty under the terrific pounding they get is inspiring.

These past months have been hard on the morale of OPA men and women, but there has been no remarkable increase in resignations from boards. As various elements fight OPA, the board members stand up and carry on. Whatever may be happening to OPA in Washington, it is not falling apart in the field.

Tankers Deliver Planes.

EVERYBODY knows that bombers have long been delivered to England under their own power. But the big problem has been to deliver fighter planes, which have had to be taken apart, crated, then reassembled on the other side.

Now, however, a new system has been devised whereby U. S. tankers are carrying fighters on deck—twenty to each tanker—and setting them down a few days later in England.

The War Shipping Administration is keeping the army "cleaned out of fighters" by this method of delivery, and is rapidly building up the strength of the Eighth Air Forces Command which is battering Germany.

Note: PT boats are also being delivered to England on the decks of tankers.

Argentine Fascism.

TWO WEEKS ago, policy makers in the state department concluded that if the New Argentine government broke relations with the Axis, the U. S. government, despite the reactionary character of the new regime, would extend lend-lease aid.

But since that time, the Ramirez government has taken a number of steps against democratic groups in Argentina. It has even stopped Red Cross bandage-wrapping by a group of pro-democratic Argentine ladies.

Latest word in Washington is that even if President Ramirez breaks relations with the Axis, lend-lease aid may not be granted in view of the government's pronounced fascism.

To keep their word in the matter, U. S. officials might extend aid to a trifling degree, but there will not be enough to lessen the great fear which Argentina now has of her powerful neighbor, Brazil.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Purely Potomac rumors — but from sources which should know.

That the rationing of clothing is as certain as those well-known certainties, death and taxes—but that WPB will insist on its being held off as long as possible.

(If the public will think of WPB as the producer, management, big business, or whatever they wish to call it; and OPA in terms of the consumers' representative, they will get a clearer picture of the whole situation. Basically, WPB's job is to produce for the war effort in ever increasing quantities; basically, OPA's job is to see that what's left for the consumer is evenly distributed at not too excessive prices. WPB, by the very nature of its personnel, is sympathetic to "business as usual" as long as it doesn't interfere with the production effort. OPA is very little interested in "business as usual" when it interferes with the control of prices and the equitable distribution of shortage materials.

THE rationing of shoes (the only real necessity made from leather) was the first step. Now, so the story goes, shortages in fabrics, starting with the now almost non-existent silk, and spreading through nylons, rayons, wools, etc., is either so acute or is running so close to the danger-line, on paper, there soon will be no alternative but to ration all clothing.

The public has almost brought this about on two occasions by hysterical runs on the haberdashers, couturiers, and department stores. A third such "run" probably would precipitate it immediately.

Along with this same story from the capital underground comes the most amazing of all—that the shortages may even extend to cotton fabrics. The assumption of course is that the shortages arise in fabrication, not in cotton itself, but some who look at the future in terms of reclothing the war-ridden nations will talk you down if you don't think that the shortage some day will be in raw cotton—one of our greatest surplus crops.

THAT somewhere behind the scenes in WPB is one of the first important stories of runaway production of this war.

It's the story of machine tools and the way it goes is that war production is not only overbought, but already glutted with machine tools except for a few highly complicated types. And that some WPB efforts to stop the flow have met with overwhelming resistance within WPB itself.

Whether this is true or not matters little. It will be true some day, not only of machine tools, but of every other item that the country is now turning out for the war machines. The greatest waste in any "successful" nation at war comes in the inability to shut off production when it has risen to the necessary peak.

Contracts, negotiated in the first flush of productive ambition to outstrip anything ever dreamed of before, can't be abrogated on a moment's notice.

It will take ten years, or maybe 20, to absorb, sell, destroy, or allow to rot all the surpluses of war material that will come out of this war.

A Farmer's Diary

Trying the Goggles

IF YOU read this column, you will remember that last week I printed, verbatim, a letter from "Regular Reader" wherin she accused me of making out farmers too "noble" and the farm "too nice." She suggested I was running to pollyannish twaddle, "overlooking the animalistic and the sordid . . . leaving out all the stink!" She hoped she would make me mad, for it might do me good.

For that lady's personal satisfaction, I have decided to speak of a few items not mentioned here before. She has asked for it,—and I thank her.

A 60-YEAR-OLD farm woman, well known and loved in a neighborhood near our own, went to bring the cows as usual and did not return. They found her gored to death, her mangled body trampled . . . A four-year-old boy hid in the field where his brother was mowing hay. The knives caught the child and mutilated him so that he died before reaching the hospital. (Both these instances made headlines, and need no additional comment from me.)

WE ARE sending Sargent, the boys' police-shepherd pup, to Dogs for Defense, Inc. His misdemeanors have totalled more than his benefits. He likes to eat little chickens; and eggs: and fowls. He snarls when children offend him. On one occasion he bit the oldest boy who tried to rescue a pet chicken.

He is a big, intelligent dog. Our boys are fond of him. But they can be proud to have him go where his fierceness can do some good. It seems the best way.

I HAPPENED by when a farmer was digging a deep hole in his cultivated field. On a wheelbarrow, nearby, were piled several hams and shoulders, brown with smoke. An awful odor hung about. I looked my question.

"Yes, the meat spoiled," he admitted, ashamed. "We butchered it too late last spring and tried out a new kind of cure. I knew when we took it out of the brine that it wouldn't be good, but the woman smoked it anyway, wishin and thinkin' that it might make a difference.

"Just look—it's spoiled from the bone out. All puffy and soggy! And what a smell! Awful waste, too, with the meat shortage, and all! Tsk, tsk! If only I'd sold it on the hoof, and spent the money!"

I DO NOT wear dark glasses very often. I hate them. Not but what they may be advisable somctimes. I always pity people who must see the sunshine tinted mauve or blue. Goggles will dominate even a lovely face, and the goggled one sees a distorted, discolored world—while the world sees only goggles.
